

Detailed Financial Report Submitted By Citizens For Exon

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Citizens for Exon, a finance committee which helps Gov. J. J. Exon meet expenses related to his office which he does not believe should be charged to the state, reported Wednesday that it has $13,513.67 in the bank.

Loren Belker of Lincoln, chairman of the committee, submitted a detailed financial report to Secretary of State Allen Beermann which listed 32 individual contributions totaling $5,405 since April of 1971, when detailed accounting began.

Expenditures since that time for such items as gubernatorial trips, entertainment, postage and even University of Nebraska football tickets for guests have totaled $10,943.62.

Belker said the new campaign reporting law, which becomes effective Sept. 2, does not apply to Citizens for Exon Committee.

But, he told Beermann in a cover letter, the committee wants to "voluntarily comply with the spirit of the new legislation."

Furthermore, he said, the detailed report should "answer exaggerated charges which have been made" about the fund.

When Belker took over as chairman of the committee — which previously existed as a campaign fund unit for Exon in 1970 — Citizens for Exon had a balance of $18,579.56.

Successful fund-raising efforts to wipe out a $36,350 Exon campaign debt had produced $54,925, Belker said.

Some $21,400 was raised at a dinner in Omaha; some $7,800 came from a pre-inaugural champagne reception, and $11,800 came from the Nebraska Democratic Party when it fulfilled its commitment of $15,000 to the 1970 gubernatorial nominee.

The remaining $13,925 came in the form of individual contributions, Belker said. No detailed record of those receipts exists, he said, "and it probably makes sense for the governor not to know who paid them."

Although contributions since that time have been individually recorded, Belker said, "all, to my knowledge, have been unsolicited."

Many of the individual contributions came from "people who indicated that they would like to contribute to the governor's fund rather than to the Democratic Party," Belker said.

Belker views the contributions as "expressions of support" for Exon.

(The Citizens for Exon fund is separate from the Governors Club fund which is being raised by the Democratic Party for campaign financing by the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nominee. As of July 1, that fund totaled $32,269.62.)

Criticism of the Citizens for Exon fund both in the press and by the Republican Party represents "a manufactured issue," Belker said.

In fact, Belker said, he believes a review of the committee's expenditures will show Nebraskans that Exon is "such a good steward of the taxpayer's funds that he is bending over backwards" to pay for expenses associated with his office which Belker personally believes could, in some cases, be justified as state expenditures.

"And isn't it ironic in Nebraska that Republicans would accuse Democrats of having too much money? Since when is $13,000 too much money?"

"People who are having great problems financially and morally within their own party are manufacturing this as an issue. If that were not so irresponsible, it would be funny."

If Exon decides to seek re-election next year, Belker said, the balance in the Citizens for Exon Committee "would become the start of the campaign fund."

If the governor were renominated, then funds in the Governors Club would become available to him for the general election campaign.

The three largest contributions in Belker's report were $2,000 from the Laborers International Union of North America and $500 each from Dale Tinstman and Sidney Hellman. Tinstman is president of First Mid-America, Inc., which employed former Gov. Norbert Tiemann after his defeat by Exon in 1970.

The largest expenditure was $810 to meet expenses for a seminar conducted by Citizens for Decent Literature.

Other expenses included $306.15 to send State Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton to Washington to represent the governor at a meeting concerning beef problems; $52.44 in luncheon expenditures for a budget briefing for newly elected state senators, and costs associated with conferences for department heads.

Opening Today . . . Hive Of Activity At Fairgrounds

By DICK HOLMAN

Gettin' ready!

The penultimate day before the 104th Nebraska State Fair begins saw a flurry of broom-pushing, installing, erecting, unloading, animal-pampering and judging.

Hundreds of people — from exhibitors to sanitation workers — moved steadily through the fan-stirred heat, readying for the 4 p.m. Thursday opening.

After the traditional preview night Thursday, fairgoers will have 10 days instead of a week to see the myriad activities planned this year.

Half Million Goal

Fair Manager Henry Brandt said Wednesday he expects a half million people to come through the gates. That would break the attendance record of 478,000 set last year.

Asked about the fair preparations, Brandt said, "We're further ahead now than anytime since I've been here."

He said the carnival came earlier than usual and some livestock and exhibitors also arrived early.

Preparations were also firming up for "Super Saturday" on Sept. 8. Brandt said the antenna was installed for the 15 by 20-foot color screen where fairgoers can view the University of Nebraska season opener against UCLA in the open air auditorium.

Construction workers too were toiling in the 90-degree heat Wednesday, putting finishing touches on the new 14th Street gate and four-lane entrance.

No Hindrance

Brandt said construction on the new University of Nebraska Fieldhouse won't hamper any fair activities.

The Murphy Brothers mile-long midway took shape rapidly Wednesday, with the gala enticements forming from hulking trucks, empty blacktop and lonesome string markers the day before.

Attractions at the fair include a prison on wheels called "Death Row." For those who appreciate the bizarre, "Big Jimbo" is advertised as the world's largest steer at 6 feet tall and 3,500 pounds (translated into "20,000 hamburgers on the hoof").

Already Judged

In the Exposition Building, winning entries in home arts, photography and needlework have already been judged and — where ribbons arrived in time — have been marked.

Mrs. Louise Howey, superintendent of needlework, said there will be a quilting bee all week long in the southeast corner of the Expo Building.

The "Best in the County" needlework winners from across the state will be judged at 2 p.m. Friday, which Mrs. Howey said "certainly gives the county fairs throughout the state a boost."

Displays were just beginning to take shape in Ag Hall, Industrial Hall and the 4-H arena and exhibition building.

Special Exhibit

Magdalene Pfister, extension specialist in home furnishings and interior design at the University of Nebraska, said the 4-H exhibits have expanded onto another floor this year and will include a special color exhibit.

She said fairgoers can see trunks and heirloom furnishings including an old organ expected to be brought from Kearney. And "anything can happen," she said, in the "Furnishings on a Shoestring" exhibiting — last year a bathtub sofa was displayed.

For those who sit in the grandstand, the shows this year include Blood Sweat and Tears, Charley Pride, Sonny James, Pat Boone and stars from the Lawrence Welk show, in addition to auto races, motorcycle races, a tractor pull and a horse and pony pull.

Art lovers can see more than 1,000 entries by 214 artists in the east end of the grandstand. The winners were judged on Tuesday and will be on display throughout the fair.

MIDWAY GOES UP . . . as Fairgrounds readied for opening.

News Story Prompts BN To Get Cars To Elevators

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

"Two out of three is not too bad for one newspaper article," said Cliff Wegner, manager of the Firth Cooperative elevator.

Wegner did not get any box cars or hopper cars for his elevator, but an article in Wednesday's Star noting a lack of cars at Nebraska elevators on the Burlington Railroad was credited with producing cars for the elevators at Hickman and Roca.

"We have been promised four cars today and I understand that Roca is to get three cars. The paper has been a tremendous help in getting us cars and we appreciate it because we were getting into a real financial bind," said Don McNeese, manager of the elevator at Hickman.

A spokesman at the Roca elevator said they received their three cars Wednesday afternoon.

Gordon Ganka of the Nebraska Public Service Commission said the three elevators had been shorted cars because of a series of problems that delayed traffic on the Burlington.

"They lost some trackage because of floods and were rebuilding track in the Humboldt area, which delayed the trains. They promised to deliver cars from Lincoln but your article hit the nail on the head when you reported that empty cars were going right by the elevators from the north also," he said.

The managers of the three elevators had complained that their elevators were unable to obtain cars to ship grain to Kansas City, which resulted in wheat producers' getting 20 cents a bushel less for their crop than farmers whose elevator was located on the Union Pacific or the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Wegner said he still had 30 cars on order but had a critical need for 10 cars to move wheat that was sold on a rail basis. "We are trucking as fast as we can but we really need those 10 cars badly. Perhaps they felt we had gotten a few more cars than Roca or Hickman did or maybe it was because you didn't use my name in the story," he said.

Mrs. Nanco Nieveen, a spokesman for the Sterling Grain Co., also called to thank the paper for the story. "We want you to know that all the elevators on the line are benefiting from the story. We understand from our depot agent that we will all get one or two cars each," she said.

Mrs. Nieveen said the Sterling elevator had used a car that had shipped in lumber to ship out grain.

Obscenity Case Mistrial Move Rejected

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

A motion for a mistrial in the obscenity case in which John Serafine is charged with four counts of selling or possessing obscene items was overruled Wednesday by Lancaster County Judge Ralph Slocum.

Defense attorneys for Serafine made the motion after a witness subpoenaed by the prosecution responded to a question as to why he terminated his employment with the Adult Book Store.

Arthur Sheldon, former manager of the Lincoln Adult Book stores and a former district manager over such stores in three cities, said that he terminated "because of a few reasons: first of all, there was some mention of drugs."

Defense counsel Ed Rawls of Champaign, Ill., argued that the statement was "prejudicial and inflammatory" and that he didn't feel that he could achieve a fair trial for his client under the circumstances.

However, Chief Deputy County Attorney Ron Lahners contended that there was no mention of any drug connection with the defendant and no allegation that he had committed a crime involving the use of drugs.

Judge Slocum overruled the motion and instructed the jury to disregard the question which was withdrawn by the prosecution and the answer which was ordered stricken from the record.

During testimony Wednesday, Police Det. Roger K. LaPage testified that he visited the store at 11th and N on Dec. 29 and purchased for $6.21 a magazine entitled "Sex and Violence" and that on Dec. 30 he purchased at the store at 2701 Holdrege a plastic or rubber male sex organ for $12 plus tax.

On cross-examination, he testified that in neither event did Serafine, who sold the items to him, direct him to purchase the items.

Detective Arthur Wagner testified that on Jan. 2 he purchased from the store at 2701 Holdrege a magazine entitled "Four Play" for $6 plus tax.

Police Capt. Paul Jacobson told the jurors that on Jan. 3 he and Lt. LaPage went to the store at 2701 Holdrege and advised Serafine that they were police officers and at that time arrested the defendant and removed with the consent of Serafine a projector and film which was being shown for 25 cents per minute at the store.

Each of the items and the film were admitted into evidence and shown to the jury of three women and three men, who are expected to hear all the remaining testimony Thursday.

Serafine, 22, of 2732 O, is charged with selling an obscene book Dec. 29, 1972, with selling an obscene article Dec. 30, 1972, with selling an obscene book Jan. 2 and with being in possession of an obscene movie film Jan. 3.

(Judge Slocum approved the release of Serafine on $2,500 cash bond Wednesday after rejecting bond written by bondsman George Meister. Story on Page 8.)

Sirica Orders Him To Produce Tapes

. . . White House Considering Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an historic challenge to claims of presidential power, a federal district judge Wednesday ordered President Nixon to produce tapes of White House conversations on Watergate for private judicial inspection. Nixon promptly refused.

Chief Judge John J. Sirica issued the order and simultaneously suspended its effect to give the White House time to appeal.

In a statement from San Clemente, Calif., barely two hours later, the White House said Nixon's lawyers "are now considering the possibility of obtaining appellate review or how otherwise to sustain the President's position."

No other possible step except appeal was mentioned by the White House.

The statement said it was Nixon's position that he must uphold the constitutional separation of powers and confidentiality of presidential conversations and "consequently will not comply with this order."

The decision fell short of the request by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox that the tapes be presented to the grand jury investigating the scandal.

But Sirica's demand that he inspect the tapes privately represented a sharp defeat for the President, even though it is subject to appeal. White House lawyers had argued that the President is beyond the reach of any such order from a court, regardless of who is to do the inspecting.

Sought by Cox, and in a parallel suit by the Senate Watergate committee, are tape recordings Nixon made of conversations in his office with key aides.

Testimony at Senate Watergate hearings has led investigators to conclude the tapes could show whether or not Nixon knew of the Watergate cover-up. Disclosure of the secret tapes was made by a former White House official in Senate testimony July 23.

That disclosure prompted the civil law suits seeking the tapes.

In his 23-page opinion, Sirica granted that there is such a thing as a presidential executive privilege against producing evidence in the interest of preserving confidentiality of presidential discussions.

But in a key section of his opinion, he declared that the judiciary, not the President, must be the judge of whether that privilege is properly invoked.

"For the courts to abdicate this role to presidents or anyone else, to make each officer the judge of his own privilege, would dishonor the genius of our constitutional system and breed unbearable abuse," Sirica said.

The judge added that he intended no suggestion that Nixon could not be trusted as the judge of his own privilege. But he said he feared that such a precedent "might permit or encourage some future high executive officer to become a despot."

First reaction from the Western White House at San Clemente was "no comment" from a press spokesman.

Cox pronounced himself "very pleased" by the decision. "If appellate review is sought, we will do everything possible to expedite the proceedings," he added.

The expected White House appeal would presumably go to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia — located upstairs from Sirica's court.

Sirica concluded that there can be no exception, even for presidents, when a court seeks to enforce compulsory process, the term signifying the court's power to compel such things as production of evidence and testimony.

It was this point particularly which was the direct challenge to the President who, in his July 25 letter rejecting the subpoena said, "I follow the example of a long line of my predecessors as president of the United States who have consistently adhered to the position that the president is not subject to compulsory process from the courts."

Thus, while Sirica established to his own satisfaction that he had jurisdiction over the tapes, their ultimate fate remained in question. "The court is simply unable to decide the question of privilege without inspecting the tapes," he said.

He said a private inspection by a judge may constitute in itself a compromise of privilege, but "an extremely limited infraction and in this case an unavoidable one."

The two points decided by Sirica, his basic jurisdiction over the question of privilege and his power to enforce Cox's subpoena, presumably will ultimately reach the U.S. Supreme Court whichever way the appeals court decision goes.

President Nixon has pledged to abide by a "definitive" decision by the highest court. If Sirica's opinion Wednesday is ultimately upheld, his future determination on whether the tapes are privileged would, presumably, also be appealed.

According to Sirica's research the subpoena and his order mark only the second time in history in which a court has directed a subpoena to the President.

The first, in a famous and often-cited case was issued in 1807 by Chief Justice John Marshall, then sitting according to the practice of the day as a circuit justice presiding in Richmond, Va., over the treason trial of former Vice President Aaron Burr.

Marshall called on President Thomas Jefferson to produce a letter bearing on the trial. Jefferson, while disputing the court's authority to issue a subpoena against the President, produced the letter.

New York Times
News Summary

Washington — President Nixon was ordered by Federal District Judge John J. Sirica Wednesday to make tape recordings of White House conversations involving Watergate available to him for his private examination. The decision was the second time in the nation's history that a court had required a president, against his will, to produce his personal records as evidence, and is certain to have serious political, governmental and legal consequences, both immediate and longrange. (More on Page 1.)

Nixon Won't Obey

San Clemente, Calif. — The White House announced that President Nixon would not comply with Judge J. Sirica's order to turn over his Watergate tape recordings to the court. (More on Page 1.)

Committee Said Overzealous

Washington — President Nixon's lawyers charged in papers filed in Federal District Court that the Senate Watergate committee has conducted a "criminal investigation and trial" that exceeded the authority granted Congress by the Constitution. The White House attorneys rejected categorically the committee's demand for tape recordings of Nixon conversations on the grounds that the senators were illegally attempting to determine "whether or not criminal acts have been committed and the guilt or innocence of individuals."

China Holds Party Congress

Peking — China disclosed that the 10th congress of her Communist Party was held in Peking last Friday through Tuesday. An announcement said the congress formally expelled former defense minister Lin Biao and Chen Po-ta from the party. Lin was designated Chairman Mao Tse-tung's successor during the last congress in 1969, and is reported to have been killed in 1971 after attempting to assassinate Mao. (More on Page 2.)

'New Arab State' Proclaimed

Cairo — President Anwar El-Sadat of Egypt and the Libyan leader, Col. Muammar El-Qaddafi, proclaimed the "birth of a new Arab state," but made it emphatically clear that actual unification of their two countries was still a long way off. (More on Page 7.)

Plea May Be Changed

Washington — A leader of the Salute To Ted Agnew Night Committee, a fund-raising group indicted for violations of Maryland election law, pleaded innocent on behalf of the committee. However, the committee's attorney called the plea procedural and strongly indicated it would later be changed to guilty.

Mortgage Move Made

Washington — In another move to check the sharp decline in availability of mortgage money for home buyers, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board has permitted savings and loan associations to offer more large certificates of deposit — $100,000 or more — with no interest ceiling. The limit was raised from 5% of total savings to 10% in order to help the associations compete for the really big money.

Talks On Breakdown Brink

Seoul, South Korea — The 11-month-old political talks between the two Koreas were reported on the verge of breakdown as the North repeated its demands that the present southern negotiators be replaced.

Breach Widens

Tokyo — The diplomatic breach between Japan and South Korea widened as the Seoul government delivered to Tokyo what Japanese officials considered an unsatisfactory report on the abduction of South Korean opposition leader Kim Dae Jung here three weeks ago.

China Reds Disgrace Lin, Chen

TOKYO (AP) — China's Communist party has apparently laid the groundwork for collective leadership to succeed 79-year-old party Chairman Mao Tse-tung when he leaves office or dies.

In its 10th national congress held in Peking on Aug. 24-28 and disclosed by the official Hsinhua news agency Wednesday, the party placed its official seal of disgrace on the chairman's two principal collaborators in the cultural purge initiated by Mao in 1966.

Former Defense Minister Lin Biao, who less than five years ago was named Mao's "close comrade in arms and successor," was expelled from the party "once and for all."

Chinese officials say Lin plotted against Mao and then died in an air crash trying to escape to the Soviet Union after the plot was discovered.

Chen Po-ta, former party Politburo member, was branded as a "principal member of the Lin Biao anti-party clique" and dismissed "from all posts inside and outside the party."

Hsinhua's report on the congress said Lin was a "bourgeois careerist, conspirator, counterrevolutionary double-dealer, renegade and traitor."

Mao presided over the congress, which elected a 148-member presidium, 28 members less than the presidium of the last party congress held 4½ years ago.

The new presidium, headed by Mao, has five vice chairmen instead of just one as designated for the previous presidium. That one vice president was Lin Biao.

The five vice chairmen are Premier Chou En-lai, former Shanghai textile worker and purge activist Wang Hung-wen, Moscow-educated party veteran Kang Sheng, elder military leader Yeh Chien-ying, and former army commander Li Teh-sheng.

The naming of five vice chairmen instead of just one was an indication that the party is moving toward a collective leadership rather than one-man rule.

Chou heads the other four vice chairmen, an indication that the suave hard-working premier, known for his spirit of a detente with the West, ranks second only to the aging chairman.

While Mao's sharp-tongued wife, Chiang Ching, and the youthful critic Yao Wen-yuan failed to make the presidium's vice chairmanship, their names appear in the lists of the new presidium and party Central Committee.

Chiang, a former Shanghai movie actress, and Yao, a Shanghai journalist turned critic, may yet appear in the new Central Committee's political bureau, the tight inner circle that sets party policies.

Fighting In Cambodia
Labeled A Civil War

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Western diplomats in Phnom Penh say Hanoi has assumed a backstage role in Cambodia and the fighting is being done by rival Cambodian factions engaged in a civil war.

"North Vietnam was running the war until the middle of last year," says one diplomat. "But it rapidly became Khmerized. The whole program is similar to Vietnam. The Americans were running the war 10 years ago. Then came Vietnamization."

The Khmers are Cambodia's dominant ethnic group, dating to the sixth century. The official name for Cambodia is the Khmer Republic.

One American diplomat characterized the fighting as a "cruel, deliberate civil war imposed by North Vietnam which doesn't want to see it stop."

Western intelligence puts the total number of North Vietnamese involved in the conflict at about 5,500 troops; 3,500 combat troops and 2,000 advisers — some of whom man heavy weapons. The North Vietnamese supply the 40,000- to 50,000-man Khmer Rouge insurgent army with guns, bullets and advice.

The intelligence says the rebel forces, composed of various factions, are being directed in their fighting by the Central Committee of the Khmer Communist party, which has its headquarters in the jungles near Kratie in northern Cambodia.

Senator Sam Hails
'Victory For Truth'

By The Associated Press

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, applauded a federal judge's demand for Watergate-related presidential tapes, calling the ruling Wednesday "a great victory for the search for truth."

The special panel headed by the North Carolina Democrat has filed suit for the same tapes that Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered President Nixon to surrender to the court for private examination.

"It gives me hope the committee will hear them," Ervin said in New Orleans. "I think we are entitled to the tapes just as much as the courts because we have a constitutional power to conduct the investigation."

The White House filed a motion seeking dismissal of the committee's suit only hours before Sirica handed down his decision in an earlier case initiated by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. The committee followed the motion with a lengthy legal argument asking Sirica to order Nixon to turn over the tapes to the committee.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., vice chairman of the Senate panel, issued a statement through his Washington office saying the ruling in the Cox case "was a wise decision (that) places adequate safeguards on the national security and separation of powers issues" raised by the historic conflict.

"Judge, Sirica clearly took jurisdiction of the matter and exercised the inherent power of a judge to hear evidence before it is made a part of the official record," Baker said.

The White House, in a statement issued in San Clemente, Calif., said the President's next step was under study by his lawyers but that he would not comply with the judge's ruling.

Two other members of the Watergate committee, Sens. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., said they would have no comment on the ruling but expected the case to go to the Supreme Court.

Committee Chief Counsel Samuel Dash and Deputy Counsel Rufus L. Edmisten also refused comment, as did Charles N. Shaffer, attorney for former White House counsel John W. Dean III.

It was Dean whose testimony before the Senate committee implicated Nixon in the Watergate cover-up. The tape recordings of his conversations with the President are among those sought by the court actions.

U.S. District Court Judge Lee Gagliardi directed that the trial begin Sept. 11 as previously scheduled, declaring: "The mere existence of publicity before trial does not trigger automatic dismissal or continuance."

Mitchell, President Nixon's former attorney general, and Stans, former commerce secretary, are accused of perjury and obstruction of justice.

The government said they sought to impede a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert Vesco, in return for a secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign last year.

Attorneys for the two men had argued that publicity about the Watergate affair, including the nationally televised hearings at which both Stans and Mitchell appeared, would hinder their clients' chances for a fair trial.

Gas Price Lids Can Go Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — An emergency appeals court gave the administration the go-ahead Wednesday to impose price ceilings on retail sales of gasoline as scheduled on Saturday, if it wishes.

Judge Edward Allen Tamm granted the government's request for a stay of a lower court order that had prohibited the Cost of Living Council from putting the price ceilings into effect.

The ceilings could result in rollbacks of retail gasoline prices at many gasoline stations, the council said.

"They can proceed to execute whatever they want to execute," a court spokesman said in interpreting what the stay order meant to the council.

However, a council spokesman was unable to say immediately whether the council would replace the current gasoline price freeze with the ceilings on schedule.

"We're studying that now," a council spokesman said.

Some gas station operators had threatened boycotts for the Labor Day weekend if the new ceilings went into effect but changed their minds after the lower court order.

The American Automobile Association said it was too soon to determine if Wednesday's ruling will precipitate shut-downs.

"AAA does not believe on the immediate evidence that such a threat should deter those making travel plans as long as they observe the usual precautions of filling up before leaving, driving on the top half of their fuel gauge and not doing extended night driving," the organization said.

In granting the government request for a stay of the lower court order, Tamm said he was preserving the "status quo" pending a full hearing on the case on Sept. 17.

Sakharov Brought Up In Trial Of Dissidents

MOSCOW (AP) — The name of nuclear physicist Andrei Sakharov was brought up in the trial of two political dissidents Wednesday, indicating increased official dissatisfaction with the man who developed the Soviet hydrogen bomb.

The news agency Tass said Sakharov was accused of signing "slandorous material" along with Pyotr Yakir, one two defendants being tried for distributing "anti-Soviet propaganda."

The trial of Yakir, once a protégé of Nikita Khrushchev, and economist Viktor Krasin, has been closed to Western journalists. Its developments are announced either through Tass or the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

Sakharov, a member of the prestigious Soviet science academy, was castigated on Tuesday by 40 fellow academicians who accused him of acting as a "tool of hostile propaganda."

In an outspoken meeting with Western reporters last week, Sakharov warned the West against accepting detente with the Soviet Union on Moscow's terms.

In its brief dispatch on the trial, Tass said it was shown that Yakir had met Sakharov "at farewell dinners for foreign correspondents" who were leaving Moscow under orders of expulsion.

Quake's Toll May Hit 1,000

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Officials of the stricken states said Wednesday night the death toll from Mexico's earthquake could reach 1,000 when bodies of victims are recovered from beneath masses of rubble.

Previous estimates placed the death toll at more than 600 in the country's worst earthquake in modern times.

Spokesmen for the Puebla state governor's office and the department of public safety in Veracruz state said 496 victims of the disaster had been found. But both predicted the number of dead may actually be twice that.

Casual Dive Is Escape

With his hands behind his head, Bob LaPlaunt made a very casual dive into the Saginaw River near Essexville, Mich., to escape the 90-degree heat that has been in the area for several days.

Susan Agnew Flown Home Due To Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Susan Agnew, daughter of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, was flown back from Brazil suddenly this week after Brazilian police reported a number of threats were made against her.

Miss Agnew, 26, had been in Maceio, Brazil, on board the hospital ship SS Hope since last February.

There was some confusion Wednesday about the exact nature of the threats. Agnew's office described them as threats against her life. Dr. William Walsh, director of Project Hope, said they were kidnap threats.

The U.S. embassy in Brazil said it never heard a thing about any kind of threat. A U.S. diplomat said he had a long talk last Thursday with Walsh "and he told me Susan was doing a great job and that everything was fine."

Agnew's office issued the following statement:

"There had been threats on her life down there and although the Brazilians thought they could take care of the situation and the vice president has expressed his confidence in the ability of the Brazilian government to provide necessary security, as a father he wanted to take the prudent measure of bringing her closer to home."

Pictures Taken Of 'Green Hell'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab astronauts took pictures Wednesday to help experts map the uncharted "Green Hell" of Paraguay, a wilderness of jungle, swamp and thorny scrub almost untouched by man.

Passing 270 miles overhead, Skylab 2 commander Alan L. Bean aimed a powerful camera at the South American plain to gather in seconds what it would have taken men on the ground years to collect.

Later, Bean and his crewmates, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, were to search for water to relieve a massive African drought threatening millions of people with starvation.

Merritt Bender, a space agency mapping expert, said Skylab photos of Gran Chaco, or "Green Hell," of Paraguay could enable map makers to chart the area within about three years.

"It would probably take 10 to 15 years to map that area using conventional means," said Bender. "It also would probably cost several millions of dollars."

Bender said the wilderness area of Paraguay is populated largely by wandering bands of Indians.

The Paraguayan government has been unable to develop the 50,000-square-mile area because little is known about it, and no topographical maps exist, he said.

During passes over Africa, the astronauts planned to take photographs that will be used to search for water in the drought-stricken region of Mali, in the northwest part of the continent.

24 Killed In Crash

MADRID (AP) — A U.S. military cargo jet with wives and children of American airmen among the 25 persons on board went down near Madrid, the U.S. Air Force said Wednesday. Only one crewman survived the crash.

The C141 StarLifter plummeted to the ground about 40 miles east of Madrid Tuesday night as it was approaching a joint U.S.-Spanish air base to land, the Air Force reported.

Spokesman at the Torrejon base identified the lone survivor as 1st Lt. William H. Ray, 25, of McGuire Air Force Base, N.J.

The Military Air Command jet, carrying nine tons of cargo, was on its way from Athens, Greece, to the Torrejon air base 16 miles east of Madrid. It was based at McGuire Air Force Base.

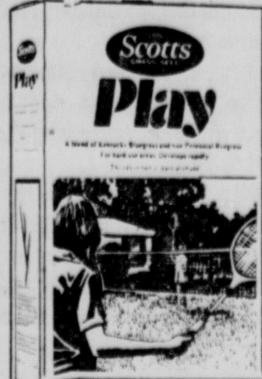

'Agnew Night' Group Offers Innocent Plea

(c) Washington Star-News Annapolis, Md. — The "Salute To Ted Agnew Night" Committee pleaded innocent Wednesday to a four-count indictment that grew out of that event.

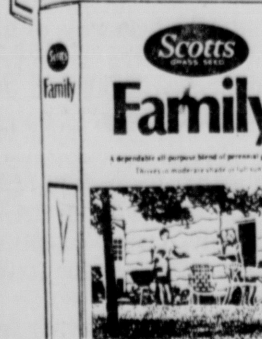

The plea was offered for the committee by the state Republican chairman, Alexander M. Lankier, who served on the 17-member committee and was a key participant in falsifying financial reports on the testimonial dinner for Agnew on May 19, 1972.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

At a gathering in connection with the state's August driving safety campaign, it was casually mentioned that an outdoor advertising firm had contributed the billboards that were used to promote the affair. Included are those billboards containing a picture of Governor J. James Exon and pointing out that August is a killer month.

As might be expected, Exon has received some partisan criticism. Critics have said that the governor is seeking political advantage by erecting safety signs at state expense that promote his own campaign for office.

If Exon is promoting himself with the billboards, he is not doing so at state expense, since the boards were donated by the advertising firm and its customers. And the decision to use the governor's picture was made by people other than the governor on the basis of what would be the most effective sign.

That the signs may be to the political advantage of the governor is an obvious thing but that the governor is subject to criticism for the signs is obvious nonsense. Also in the same nonsense category is the GOP attack against Exon for his campaign re-election fund.

Whether or not Exon has a campaign re-election fund and how much it contains are nothing of public concern at the moment. The governor has no legal nor moral obligation whatsoever to disclose the fund, as the GOP is trying to insinuate.

Nor is there any basis for criticizing the governor for putting into his fund money he might have received as a speaking honorarium. The governor reports one such honorarium was placed in the fund but later taken out.

The governor can put whatever funds he wants that are at his personal disposal into the re-election coffers. The re-election money will come under scrutiny only when and if the governor seeks public office with those funds.

Then, the governor will be obliged under the law to make appropriate disclosure of the source of his campaign contributions and how they are spent. What the GOP is trying to do is to make something look illegal or immoral when, in fact, it is neither.

At the gathering in connection with the August safety campaign, the governor was present and made some comments. It was at that time that this writer became a little more aware of why Exon is as popular as he is.

He is not popular because he is outstandingly intelligent, as he is no more so than any of us. He is not especially innovative or even the most polished speaker around.

What Exon has is the common sense and his years in high office have not hardened this. It often happens with so many officials. Exon still moves effortlessly among a crowd, shaking hands, smiling and talking about matters of everyday concern to people.

He still listens to his staff, to the various administrators within the framework of state government. He is more sensitive to criticism than the average office-holder but he is willing to compromise an issue if he thinks that is the most he can get.

It may not appear this way when he encounters the Legislature head-on but such is still our assessment. And the governor has what is known in the trade as a "gut" feeling for what people want and don't want. Exon isn't lacking in ability, by any means, but it is his personal characteristics that make him rise above the crowd.

Mushrooming Living Costs Increase Threat To Trudeau

OTTAWA — "If my stomach was not in such bad shape, I would try dog food," wrote a consumer to one Canadian politician. Most food buyers have not reached that level of despair but there is a perceptible touch of panic in the worry over inflation here. The soaring cost of living constitutes the most explosive issue Prime Minister Trudeau has had to face since his re-election last Oct. 30.

Canadian concern is focused on the upward march of beef prices, just as it is in the United States. A pound of sirloin, which went for $1.55 a year ago, now fetches $2.30 in many supermarkets. Government statistics show that food prices advanced 1.9% during July and were then 14.7% higher than a year earlier.

Killing two birds with one stone, Trudeau moved Aug. 13 to limit beef exports to the United States. This program is a blandishment to Canadian nationalists who see an American fly in every Canadian soupbowl. And it has the appearance of confronting inflation where it hurts most. In fact, economists are still debating whether exports have significantly reduced beef available to the Canadian market.

There is a serious question whether Ottawa can do anything very much about inflation. As one of the world's most prolific trading nations, Canada is fully exposed to international price trends. It is especially vulnerable to America's price performance, since it buys most of its imports from Uncle Sam.

Rising food prices have also served to heighten feelings of regionalism in Canada's four western provinces. Aware of their new importance in a world of soaring demand for foodstuffs and raw materials, the provincial governments are demanding a fairer shake from Ottawa on issues ranging from farm programs to freight rates to development spending.

Trudeau is being cautious about his handling of the economy, feeling that he might hasten or deepen a recession that many observers see coming. Above all, he is resisting pressure by the opposition Conservative party to institute wage and price controls. Government spokesmen say the American experience is pretty conclusive evidence they don't work.

So far, the prime minister is also fending off a suggestion by the socialist New Democrats to arm a prices review board with the power to roll back the cost of some consumer goods. The board's current function is to make quarterly reports to Parliament and to publicize what it considers to be unwarranted price increases.

Still, inflation is the paramount political issue in Canada today and Trudeau will probably have to take some sort of action soon. High food prices could easily topple his minority Liberal government.

The Liberals have only 109 seats in the 264-seat House of Commons and they will be forced to call another election as soon as they are defeated on an important vote. So far, the 31 New Democrats have voted with the government, foiling all attempts by the 107-member Conservative contingent to kick Trudeau out of power.

That cozy political arrangement is now wearing thin. New Democratic party leader David Lewis has all but said he is going to withdraw his support of Trudeau. If he does, Canada will be in the throes of another election shortly after Parliament meets Oct. 15 following the summer recess.

'But What About Watergate?'

Is There A Middle Ground?

One wonders if there is really any kind of middle ground in U.S. political affairs. The Lincoln Star has not been especially understanding of President Nixon's approach to Watergate but it can be said that, once the event became public knowledge, there might have been no acceptable out for the President.

Conservative columnist James J. Kilpatrick has taken the President to task for not being a little more ordinary than he is. Because Nixon is such a proper individual and so concerned with proper channels, he never simply picked up the phone and asked his top administration people about Watergate.

In his last press conference, Nixon said that "the President doesn't pick up the phone and call the attorney general every time something comes up on a matter." Kilpatrick's point is that if Nixon did a little more of such gut reaction things, he would be better off.

It might help Nixon, said Kilpatrick, "if more often he would break out of the shell, lose his temper, shove old Ron around, sweat, swear, weep and belly-laugh like other men — and pick up the phone himself."

You may remember the big deal made, however, out of Nixon's apparent shoving of presidential press secretary Ron Ziegler during a recent trip in the South. Some columnists and commentators have criticized the President for that display of annoyance. Reporters have tended to imply with their questions that the action was an unforgivable insult to Ziegler.

One Washington Post writer, as a result of the Ziegler shoving deal, has referred to Nixon as El Flippo. We totally agree that it might be better for Nixon if he were a little more plain and ordinary in his actions and reactions.

But can you imagine the hue and cry that would go up if Nixon came out in public with a profane word or two? And the interpretations that would be placed on this would stretch the imagination beyond the breaking point.

Additionally, such simply is not the style of the man and we ought to be a little less critical than we are of any president's personal style. He is entitled to be judged more on what he does than on his appearance.

Ending Guilt By Association

According to a wire service report, Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson is considering abolishing the old department list of subversive organizations. That would be another feather in Richardson's cap, a cap that already is pretty well feathered with decisions tending to protect the constitutional rights of citizens.

The old cold war list has already lost some of its punch as a result of a new law stipulating that the government cannot accuse an individual of belonging to an organization on the list unless it is prepared to prove the individual was participating in illegal activities.

The thrust of this whole move against the old list is to protect the rights of citizens against the willful and illegal destruction of their reputation. It is to seek to protect people against character assassination and to secure for them their rights to a trial by jury and to face their accuser.

In other words, it has been a pillar of our society that people are innocent until proven guilty and we want that pillar to stand. We do not want a citizen's name destroyed through the simple act of some administrator's placing his name on a list and thereby subjecting him to great and unfair pressures and discrimination.

If a man is suspected of subversion, let the government make such a charge and then try to prove it or forget the matter. No man should be branded a subversive by executive decree and that is what the old list tended to do.

In that same line, we agree totally with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew that he is unfairly being tried in the press for alleged kickbacks and bribery during his administration as governor of Maryland. And we agree that some of the blame for this must fall upon the press, especially those publications which dug out and initially printed the Agnew rumors.

We said it before and we say it again — Agnew is entitled to a full assumption of innocence until and unless it is proven otherwise.

JAMES RESTON

Grace Under Pressure

WASHINGTON — The new attorney general of the United States, Elliot L. Richardson, is an elegant man of elaborate, almost ostentatious serenity, and you could never tell by watching him these days that he is under more pressure now than ever before in his varied service to the federal government.

What will he do if his U.S. attorney in Baltimore recommends the indictment of Vice President Agnew on charges of criminal extortion, conspiracy, etc. — support it or reverse it?

What position will he take on Richard Nixon's assertion that a president must first be impeached, convicted, and removed from office before he can be tried in court on criminal charges? And would Richardson's position be the same on the vice president in the Baltimore case — namely that Agnew would have to be removed from office before he had to stand trial on criminal charges?

A prudent man facing such questions on a new job might be expected to take refuge in silence, even in isolation. Richardson instead is both available and voluble. He sees reporters as if he had all the time in the world, doodles and talks with meticulous care. Smokes big black cigars in the morning, and says absolutely nothing on the points at issue, but says nothing with admirable eloquence and unfailing courtesy.

Still, the days of putting political managers at the head of the Justice Department — Herbert Brownell, Robert Kennedy, John Mitchell — are now over, and Richardson's dilemma is that he has to protect the civil rights of Agnew against leaks and unproven charges, while at the same time being faithful to the law as it applies to the two top officials of his party and the nation.

Few attorneys general of the United States have ever had to face such a tangle of legalities and loyalties in the first weeks of their work, and Richardson, after Watergate, is making clear that the integrity of the Justice Department, and even of the government is likely to depend not on what he says but the performance of his duties.

His dilemmas are fairly obvious. If he supports a criminal indictment against the vice president, no matter what the evidence, he will be accused by many members of his party of being disloyal to the Republicans; and if he doesn't follow a recommendation to indict, he will be accused of being more loyal to his party than to the law.

If he decides that the President is not subject to criminal charges until impeached and removed from office, he will against his own special prosecutor, Archibald Cox, and if he sides with Cox, he will have to go against the President.

Neither the President nor the vice president has made Richardson's task very easy. The President has said publicly that the time has come to leave the Watergate mess to the courts, but at the same time he has denied the courts the power to compel release of the tapes that might contain the critical evidence of criminal activity.

More than that, the President has refused the compromise of allowing Judge Sirica to examine the tapes in private, so as to get at the criminal evidence without destroying the confidentiality of "national security" information. There is another awkward situation. Speaking of the Watergate investigation on last April 17, the President said:

"If any person in the executive branch or in the government is indicted by the grand jury, my policy will be to immediately suspend him. If he is convicted, he will, of course, be automatically discharged."

This is the President's principle and promise, but would he, or could he, apply it to Agnew if the latter were indicted in the Baltimore case? This would not be Richardson's problem but the President's and though the vice president is clearly "in the

Patchwork Prairie Country

How I do wish August would be a bit more considerate of the human race and perhaps turn down the blast furnace a wee mite. Day after day the sun pours its burning rays earthward. Coupled with the high humidity, one is almost tempted to take a siesta such as they take in the countries south of us. A long midday respite from the heat would surely make living a bit more pleasant.

The Farmer is fertilizing his wheat ground. . . something he has not done for a number of years. The rise in wheat prices was an incentive although we do not raise a great many acres of the grain.

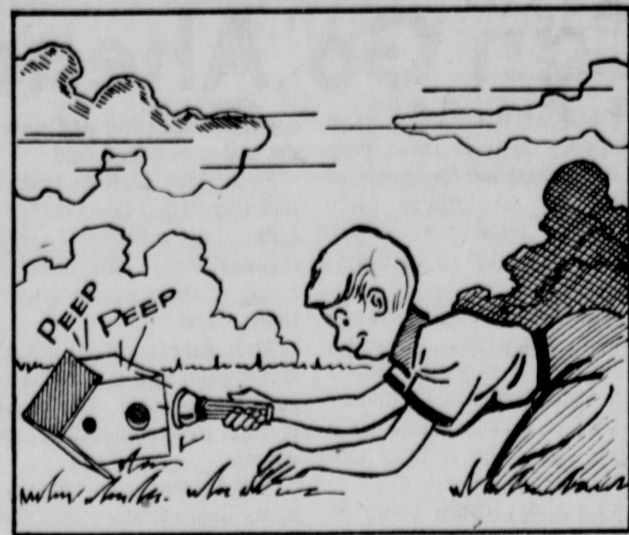

Ah, me! I gasped, as I finished canning the last of sixty quarts of home-grown peaches. Some were put in the deep freeze and several pies were frozen for future use.

They are the old Hale variety that we have had such success in growing and with such flavor! Picked at their peak of ripeness and oozing with pink, sweet juice, they are indeed a treat. We much prefer them to the ones that are picked green from the trees and shipped into the supermarkets.

Tomatoes likewise have been going into jars while sweet corn has been tucked into the freezer. It seems every kind of produce comes at one time and I am overcome almost by all the fruit and vegetables that seem to mature.

The egg plant have done well and we have consumed several. Green peppers are setting on by the dozens, thanks to the cool days in early August.

I have found that it takes much more than water at the roots of the plants to make them produce. Hot, long days keep the plants from setting fruits. The blossoms blast and drop leaving nothing to show for themselves.

How warm it must be for the youngsters who have started back to school. One little girl I saw being fitted for a new dress was quite undecided as to whether she wanted the blue or red dress. After some moments of great deliberation that produced no decision, the mother finally decided to take them both.

A younger boy at her side seemed very unhappy that so much time need be spent for a new dress when he needed new shoes for school.

The baby in her arms was also unhappy because in need of a bottle. I imagine the poor mother was worn to a frazzle when she returned to her home and gasped, "Thank heaven for schools." Likewise, come May when schools come to a close, teachers grieve and say, "Thank heaven for vacation!"

How sturdy nature's creatures are. One windy day the wren house blew down. I was aware that the adult was setting on a second brood of eggs. . . When I hung clothes on the line I found the house, right-side-up and fortunately in the shade of the big elm tree. With a flashlight I saw several very small wrens and one egg yet unhatched. I put the house back up but the wrens did not return until the following morning. I feared for the young. But to my surprise the adults began feeding the new brood as soon as they arrived.

Now the little house is alive with peeps, telling me the small birds survived. How, I will never know for the birds seemed so tiny and big breath of wind could blow them away in an instant.

The crickets must have a built-in time clock for I have noticed them grouping around the house, no doubt preparing to enter the house at a later date when the weather cools.

Several have found their way into the house. Nothing sounds so loud and disturbing in the middle of the night as a cricket that decides to chirp. Perhaps it is trying to send its greetings to the many yet outside that chirp all night but somehow do not seem so disturbing.

I have found chlordane put along the foundation of the house greatly reduces the number that get inside. Many dead crickets lie along the edge of the house. I much prefer a dead cricket.

Letters To The Editor

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by the writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Bail Reform

Lincoln, Neb. We are disturbed by the hostility which some of our state and local leaders have demonstrated towards the proposed pre-trial release agency for Lancaster County, and appalled by the autocratic tactics that have been used to delay if not kill the project.

The need for bail reform is obvious. The present system requires the practically impossible task of translating the risk of flight into dollars and cents. The requirement that most defendants must post bail causes discrimination against defendants who are poor and imposes personal hardships on them, their families, and on the public which must bear the cost of their detention and frequently support their dependents welfare.

Today an accused is released from the city jail pending arraignment because he can pay to have a lawyer come and get him out or because the police or public defender arbitrarily decides to release him. Today decisions as to the amount to be posted pending trial are made at the arraignment by the municipal court in an admittedly haphazard fashion on the basis of inadequate information about the accused. It is to provide the necessary facts about the accused so an informed, individualized decision can be made that is the pre-trial release project's chief function.

All the objections to the program that have been raised by the chief of police are capable of being easily resolved if approached by the police in a spirit of cooperation rather than the one of opposition which they have thus far displayed. The claim that the program is unconstitutional is unfounded. The program vests no discretion in law students to release anyone. It merely authorizes them to inform the police that an incarcerated accused meets the projects criteria for release; the decision to release pending arraignment is made by the police — the same body that currently makes that decision. We urge that the proposed pre-trial release project be implemented without further delay. It should not be held ransom in a fight over a night court or the need for additional police.

Survivors

Lincoln, Neb. War is a matter of survival. Nobody wins, and after a bit, everybody loses, because superior technique and weapons and circumstances are not merely being a good soldier. Too often victory depends on good luck. People cross their fingers at card games and horse races. They cross their hearts during a battle. Yet there is always the chance of a double-cross, and people often do cross themselves up.

Following any siege, a survivor may be those who took to the hills or lived in caves or sat it out in some hayloft. Survivors have existed in gutters and on garbage. Survivors may be heroes and saints, or guilty of espionage, crime or murder. Victory often defeats its own purpose through survival, because living is not only by fitness. There are refugees and casualties, being out of battle range, and the life you save might be the enemy, or those who died may be friend or countryman.

How to rebuild a nation or rekindle a dream is not always through faith, progress or is it an act of God. If the rain falls on the just and unjust, so does war destroy the peaceful and peace disturb the warrior.

The New Martha

Blair, Neb. The line forms to the right if you want to join the new "Martha Mitchell Get Nixon Club"! This isn't the old Martha who was giving her Republican and partisan Nixon peers the belly laughs while ripping the Democrats and presidential aspirant McGovern from pillar to post.

What a difference a year makes. You can put it to music if you wish. Now that Martha is telling it like it wuz, on matters related to Watergate, her husband and "King Richard," she has become the most famous head case in the country, if you care to ask the more than devout Nixon zealots — the king-can-do-no-wrong worshippers who want Watergate swept under the rug by turning it over to the courts.

We know that if this happens, Mr. Nixon will come out free and clear because a gutless and guilt-ridden Congress will NOT impeach.

Street Repairs

Lincoln, Neb. Someone has told me that a long stretch of 17th Street is to be torn up shortly for repairs and resurfacing. Surely the city could put this off until after State Fair time, at least. A few more weeks aren't going to make that much difference, and it is such a mess with regular traffic, let alone added congestion, to have a main arterial out of use at such a time.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Resemblance Found In Elderly Couples

By ROBERT PETERSON

Maybe one of these days scientists will be able to tell us just why husbands and wives who have been married for decades tend to resemble each other. I've attended a hundred golden wedding anniversary parties and in just about every case have made the private observation that — by golly — the husband and his bride of half a century do indeed resemble each other.

It is probably because each has a buffeting effect on the other. Each tries unconsciously to get his partner to conform to his standard or point of view. And because humans are essentially imitative, each unknowingly copies some of the other's features and mannerisms.

Over the years they tend to eat the same kind and quantity of food, and this probably gives their figures, coloring and skin texture somewhat similar qualities.

They have experienced much the same emotions and it is reasonable that the expressions on their faces and the outlook of their eyes should bear a marked resemblance.

And it's likely that in making the original selection each was drawn toward someone with characteristics and features not too dissimilar to each other.

Can anyone explain why it is that the older we become, the earlier we awaken? Very small children tend to awaken around six in the morning no matter how late they go to bed. But during the long years of youth and middle-age we do our best sleeping in the early morning and find ourselves cursing the alarm clock that forces us to kick off the covers and get up and go to school or work.

It's when we pass into our 60s that we generally begin awakening earlier and find ourselves wide-eyed at five or six in the morning and unable to go back to sleep.

My father used to say that when he was working he could always sleep until 7:30. But a few weeks after retiring at 65 he found himself wide awake every morning at six no matter how late he went to bed.

Maybe it has something to do with the ancient saying that if an old man boasts that he's always up at six in the morning, you can be sure he's taking a nap somewhere at three in the afternoon.

Another change brought on by age is an altered preference as to the most enjoyable day of the week. When we're young, Friday with its promise of a weekend of leisure beckons as the sweetest day of the week. And Monday is the saddest.

But as we grow older and attuned to the subtle satisfactions of work, we may sense a slight letdown when Friday rolls around, knowing that we've got to find substitute satisfactions those next two days. And instead of Monday morning blues, we welcome the chance to get back into harness and tackle familiar, comfortable work routines.

Provocative quote from the writings of Henry David Thoreau: "Why should we be in such desperate haste to succeed? If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music he hears, however measured or far away."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Take special care during short trips. Confusion seems to be order of day. Don't scatter forces. Do one thing at a time. Finish project. Artistic effort runs into roadblock. However, end results are worth trouble.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Utilize creative resources. Cost estimates may be high—obtain impartial appraisal. Leo, Aquarius might be in picture. Accent is on money, personal possessions. Payment could be defaulted. Strive for fresh start.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may have to do some heavy lifting down for the purpose of rebuilding. Trust hunch. Give full play to intuitive intellect. What served in past may not suffice. Streamline procedures. Consult with Aquarius. Prestige is on the line.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Social activity accelerates. You may be part of a club or group celebration. Purchase of gift now could show that you care. Remember, Sagittarius. Gemini persons could be featured. Keep promise to friend who is temporarily handicapped.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friends may act in manner the suggests restlessness, dissatisfaction, disturbance. Look behind scenes for answers. Scorpio could play significant role. Don't put too much reliance now on promises. Say "no" to money proposal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If you go slow, you make advance. If you try to skip details, you repeat steps. The choice is your own. Gemini, Virgo persons figure prominently. Emphasis is on how high you want to go — and your timetable. Weigh costs. One in authority may be angry.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Travel and educational areas are subject to abrupt change. Family considerations are involved. Be diplomatic. But make clear that your thoughts are your own — not to be molded or dictated by others. Take a stand. You can do so in kind, mature manner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Bills, invoices demand attention. See picture clearly. Don't obscure facts. Face issues as they actually exist. One you may have been taking for granted speaks frankly. Show appreciation, not resentment.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have great ability to laugh at own foibles. Basic change and travel opportunity shown for October. Diet and nutrition should be high on your list—neglect here creates special problems for you. Many born under Gemini and Sagittarius are drawn to you. Opening Stevens Creek Supported By Chamber

By JIM PRATT
Star Staff Writer

The city should reconsider its opposition to development of the Stevens Creek watershed area, the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce board of directors agreed Wednesday.

The board endorsed a report by a subcommittee of their economic development to face squarely and accept a policy of future planned and quality growth so that it can be in the continual position of controlling such growth.

"The development of the Stevens Creek area or other areas of the city should be done on a basis of accommodation and control..." the subcommittee report continued.

In accordance with this, the subcommittee recommended and the board agreed that the city should compare the costs of extending utilities into the Stevens Creek area with costs of extending utilities into the north, northwest and west areas outside the city.

Barriers Cited
City planners have favored development in these latter areas before Stevens Creek development was undertaken. The subcommittee argued that barriers to development in these areas, such as the Interstate, other highways and substantial industrial zoning, made prior development of the Stevens Creek area more attractive.

If the city cannot undertake extending utilities at public cost to either Stevens Creek or the north, northwest and west areas, the report argued, the city should consider establishing sanitary improvement districts to defray the initial public costs of installing utilities.

This also would encourage private development to the north, northwest and west, the subcommittee says.

Another recommendation approved by the board would urge the city to move with all due speed to construct the proposed Northeast Waste Treatment Facility.

Eliminate Lagoon

If done, this possibly would eliminate the Havelock lagoon system and accommodate existing industry and industrial sites, the recommendation said.

In its report, the subcommittee said if city planning is not more progressive, surrounding communities such as Waverly, Eagle and Hickman will be subjected to tremendous growth demands which will be difficult to handle.

In addition, the city would have no control over this situation nor gain tax money from the growth, the report argued.

The board also endorsed a recommendation from its economic development committee to support the request by the Tabitha Development Corp. for zoning in the Stevens Creek area. The board noted this was a departure from normal chamber policy shunning individual zoning endorsements.

In other action, the board gave its blessing to a proposed project which would place various sculptures along Interstate 80 commemorating the nation's bicentennial.

Unveiling In 1976

If the project is completed as discussed by Tom Yates, who headed a subcommittee of the chamber's convention and tourism committee which explored the idea, the sculptures would be unveiled at rest stops along the Interstate on July 4, 1976.

Eicher Receives Award As Top Camp Counselor

Doug Eicher, 19, of Milford, was named the outstanding counselor at the Easter Seal's Camp Kiwanis this summer by the camp staff.

Eicher, a counselor for the past two summers, received the Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dann Memorial Award from Ellis Dann, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dann, at the camp's final banquet.

Eicher is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Derald Eicher of Milford. He is a special education and psychology major at the University of Nebraska-Omaha.

Eicher's name will be added to a plaque displayed at the camp near Milford, the only summer resident camp in Nebraska specifically for the physically and mentally handicapped.

Baking Firm Agrees To Refund $52,000 On Overpriced Goods

Dallas (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service Wednesday said a national banking firm had agreed to voluntarily refund $52,000 to retailers in eight states who purchased overpriced bakery goods.

The firm operates 68 bakeries nationally and produces Rainbo, Manor and Colonial namebrand products.

The refunds will be made to grocers in Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Iowa, Arkansas, Nebraska, Virginia and Michigan.

IRS Regional Director W. T. Coppinger said the government notified Campbell Taggart, Inc., on July 18 that listed prices were not in accordance with economic stabilization guidelines on 49 baked goods.

Coppinger said consumers would not be able to demand refunds from the retailers until it was determined if the illegal price hikes were passed on by the grocers.

State Fuel Allocation Still In Doubt

Whether the state will implement a mandatory fuel allocation plan remained in doubt Wednesday following a public hearing held by the State Department of Revenue.

Fuel industry representatives who attended the day-long hearing maintained that the federal government has pre-empted any state plan to insure a fair distribution of fuel supplies.

The law passed by the 1973 Legislature specifically makes any state plan subservient to federal actions, and the federal government currently has drawn up voluntary guidelines for the petroleum and natural gas suppliers to follow. Any state plan would be mandatory.

Change 'Miraculous'

Manila (UPI) — Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos has appealed to overseas Filipinos to visit their homeland to see the "miraculous transformation" in the country after 11 months of martial law.

Dividend Hiked

Rochester, N.Y. (AP) — Gannett Co. directors increased the quarterly dividend on the publishing company's common stock from 6 1/4 to 9 cents a share.

StateTax Commissioner William E. Peters questioned the oil firm executives to determine whether the voluntary program is working sufficiently well. Peters promised a "speedy" decision on the matter.

Charles Chace, director of the Nebraska Petroleum Council, reminded Peters of an attorney general's opinion which questioned whether the law placed unconstitutional restrictions on the manner the firms can conduct business.

Artificial Gene Progress Made

CHICAGO (AP) — Further progress was reported Wednesday toward creation of an artificial gene which can function in a living cell.

The report was given at the 166th national meeting of the American Chemical Society by Dr. Kaniya Lal Agarwal of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge.

Agarwal is a member of a research team headed by Dr. Har Gobind Khorana, professor of biology and chemistry at MIT, who won the Nobel Prize in 1968 for genetic research.

The research group in 1970 created the first artificial gene, but it could not function detectably within a living cell because the scientists had not developed a way to incorporate the necessary control signals for its functioning.

Agarwal told a news conference that the team now has made significant progress in incorporating "start and stop" signals in a synthesized gene, the basic unit of all heredity.

Agarwal would not speculate on possible applications to human health or medicine that the research might have. He said "we are far, far away" from curing any diseases with knowledge gained in this research.

Genes control all inherited characteristics in living organisms. In humans, for example, they determine, among other things, such factors as the color of eyes and hair. They are bundled together in packages called chromosomes.

The researchers have synthesized a gene which is a copy of one found in the bacterium Escherichia coli — or E. coli, as it is called. This bacterium commonly is found in the intestines of humans and animals.

Agarwal reported that work is complete on the synthesis of the 126-unit gene except for those portions which will serve as start and stop signals for the cell in extracting the gene's information.

The scientists are not sure yet what combination of chemicals make a gene issue "orders" altering the cell's structure, thereby determining the cell's function within a living organism. They also are unsure of what chemicals are involved in stopping such biological orders once the gene's job is completed.

Once they figure this out then they can attach the proper chemical signals to the end of their artificial gene and introduce it into E. coli to study its function, Agarwal explained.

The function of the gene will be production of a substance called tyrosine transfer RNA — ribonucleic acid.

Merger Is Agreed By Sadat, Khadafy

CAIRO (AP) — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy agreed Wednesday to a merger of their two neighboring Arab nations, Cairo radio reported.

The radio said the merger would take place gradually, beginning with the formation Saturday of a 100-member assembly to draft a permanent constitution for submission to a national referendum. No timetable was given.

The broadcast invited other Arab countries to join the new state, declaring that "Arab unity is no longer a choice between different political forms, but has become a necessity for our existence."

The announcement, which gave no name for the new North

African state, said the merger would be based on the principles of the 1952 Egyptian revolution and the 1969 Libyan revolution. Those two events brought the late Gamal Abdel Nasser and Khadafy to power.

Sadat and Khadafy plan to remain in power jointly "to shoulder their responsibilities until full merger is completed." The assembly is to nominate a president for the new nation after the constitution is accepted. Khadafy has said he would step aside in favor of Sadat.

The assembly is to be made up of 50 members of the Egyptian parliament and 50 members from the Libyan popular revolutionary committees.

Volume Of Traffic Falls For 1st July In 8 Years

By The Associated Press
For the first time in eight years, traffic on Nebraska's rural roads and highways last month fell short of the volume in July of the previous year.

Roads Department officials said Wednesday they believe gasoline shortages to have caused the 1.2% decline.

It marked only the third time in 16 years that July traffic has failed to exceed the same month of the previous year.

In Colorado, the decline was said to have been 4%. Kansas was reported to have experienced a one per cent July decline in traffic on its rural state highway system, including the turnpike.

On Interstate 80 at the Douglas-Sarpy County line between Lincoln and Omaha, the July vehicle count averaged 23,858 per day, down one per cent from last year. On Interstate 80-South at the Nebraska-Colorado state line, the count dropped 11.4% to 6,765 per day.

Among highways recording a gain was U.S. 20 west of South Sioux City, where the daily count increased 2.1% to 3,637.

Along with traffic, motor vehicle fuel tax collections fell off in July. The $7,366,000 collected was down more than 3% from the $7,603,000 collected in July last year.

August Traffic Safety Meeting Set At Sidney

Gov. J. James Exon and other state officials will travel to Nebraska's Panhandle Thursday to wind up an August traffic safety campaign with a conference at Sidney.

Nearly 200 highway safety leaders and elective officials from western Nebraska are expected to attend the afternoon session, for which the Sidney Elks lodge is host.

Exon will be joined by Motor Vehicles Director John Sullivan, state Engineer Tom Doyle and state Patrol Supt. James Krueger in a news conference following the afternoon seminar.

Sullivan noted Wednesday that with two days remaining of the month, 33 traffic deaths have been counted in Nebraska, as opposed to the 60 or more normally expected during what has been called the "killer month."

Peru May Use Force To Take Mining Property

LIMA, Peru (AP) — President Juan Velasco said Wednesday his military regime may use force to take over the Peruvian copper mining properties of Cerro Corp., a U.S. firm, if current negotiations to expropriate them fail.

Velasco claimed that both the miners and his administration were upset with the company's Peruvian subsidiary, Cerro de Pasco Corp., for not providing its workers with adequate housing.

He also claimed Cerro had violated a number of other Peruvian laws.

Cerro, a Delaware corporation, has said its Peruvian copper properties are worth $150 million.

Catholic School Lunch Policies Are Announced

Father James Dawson, superintendent of Lincoln Catholic Schools, has announced policies which detail eligibility for free or reduced price meals under the federal government's school lunch program.

Generally, the policies permit pupils from families of four to take advantage of free meal practices if family income is less than $5,310 per year.

Unusual expenses related to medical expenses, housing and special education needs are also taken into account.

Application forms have been sent to parents and are available in principals' offices.

Antifreeze Shortage Forecast This Year

Nebraska motorists can expect a shortage of antifreeze for the approaching winter months, according to a number of Lincoln and Omaha wholesalers.

Ethylene glycol, the major natural gas ingredient in antifreeze, is no longer easily available to manufacturers in the industry.

Charles Salem, president of Salem Oil Co. in Lincoln, said the shortage of ethylene glycol is due to competition from the polyester fabric industry, which can afford to pay higher prices for the chemical.

Salem said prices have risen 30 cents a gallon on drums of antifreeze, and 35 to 36 cents a gallon on cases of plastic containers, since last year.

Normally, Salem said, by mid-

November 85 to 90% of his antifreeze sales have been accomplished. However, he expects about a 30% cut in his usual stock this year, as a result of the shortage.

"I think it would be wise for people not to drain their antifreeze, and add a little anti-rust (additive) and make it last another year," said Harold Jacobs, of Jacobs Service, Inc.

Salem also said that most new cars, with pressurized radiators and air conditioning equipment, should have antifreeze in their radiators all year round anyway. He said auto manufacturers are now building sealed radiator systems that retain the same antifreeze for the life of the car, and that the retardant is added only if the radiator is damaged.

Bond Written By Meister Rejected

... By Judge In Serafine Case

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

A bond prepared Wednesday for John Serafine, after his previous bond was revoked Tuesday by Lincoln bondsman Stuart Marx, was not approved by the court after an objection was raised by the county attorney's office.

County Attorney Paul Douglas said that he would object to any bond that bondsman George Meister writes until there is proof that those bonds have some backing.

An employee of Meister had prepared a $2,500 bond for Serafine Wednesday but Meister, who said he didn't want to write Serafine's bond, later withdrew the bond after the questions were raised.

Douglas said that the matter of questioning Meister's writing of bonds was brought to his attention in connection with a bond on a defendant in Lancaster District Court prior to the Serafine matter.

Herbert Friedman, attorney for Serafine, told the court that Douglas had not objected to any bonds Meister had written before but that he was merely objecting because it was on Serafine.

"There is no reason for this young man to spend another night in jail," Friedman said, adding that Meister had told him that Douglas had suggested that he not write a bond in this case.

Douglas denied telling Meister that Wednesday and later confronted Meister with the accusation and Meister denied making the statement to Friedman.

Douglas said that Meister had told him late in the day that his firm had no collateral in Nebraska and Douglas said this was the reason for his objecting to Serafine's bond.

County Judge Ralph Slocum said he would not approve a bond without backing after the "defendant's own counsel has told the court that day by day he doesn't know where his client is."

After considerable argument by Friedman, Slocum said that the bond was written but not approved and subsequently withdrawn by Meister "so what are you going to do."

Friedman and Defense Attorney Ed Rawls from Champagne, Ill., put up a $2,500 cash bond for the release of their client late Wednesday night.

Beer Holder Bags Gar

Commercial fisherman Ray Martin, of Fountain City, Wis., holds a plastic-snared gar he found in his gill net in Mississippi River backwaters near Homer, Minn. He said the fish apparently became ensnared in a ring of the six-pack beverage holder when smaller and the ring cut through its body as it grew, eventually causing its death.

Survey Merger Looked Into By Public Works Task Force

The Public Works task force studying merger of city-county government got the ball rolling Wednesday as it looked into consolidating land surveying services.

The task force, the first of seven to meet, was told by Chief Deputy County Engineer Henry Graff and Public Works Director Bob Obering that there is some overlapping of services in the land surveying field.

NWU Reports Enrollment Up

A Nebraska Wesleyan University spokesman said Wednesday that new student enrollment is up 16% this fall.

Final enrollment figures for NWU will not be available until late next week, said Darrel Seng of the college development office.

But Seng said Wesleyan officials were encouraged by the increase in new students, who total 434 this year, compared with 371 a year ago.

Rights Ordinance May Be Rewritten

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

City Atty. Dick Wood said Wednesday he will advise the City Council to comply with the state attorney general's office opinion on the city's proposed human rights ordinance.

The wide ranging measure covers open housing, open accommodations and equal employment.

In a letter from Asst. Atty. Gen. Betsy Berger to the State Equal Opportunity Commission (EOC), Berger said the housing section is not "substantially equivalent" to state law dealing with discrimination in that area.

The pending Lincoln ordinance apparently goes beyond existing state law in outlawing certain conditions dealing with housing.

In Conflict
Specific provisions which seem to be in conflict with state law include the boarding house section and the addition of three anti-bias provisions, Wood said.

Under Lincoln's plan, all homes which rent out three or more rooms would be covered by the anti-discrimination clause. State law provides for four rooms, Wood explained.

In addition, the section banning discrimination on the basis of marital status, age and receipt of public assistance will have to be struck.

If the city keeps the ordinance as it now stands, Berger said, the state EOC would not be able to legally defer housing complaints to the city's EOC for hearing.

"Redefined"

"If the ordinance passes without change," she told the state commission, "it would not be considered substantially equivalent by Nebraska courts because the State Legislature's definition of criminal conduct has been redefined in the ordinance to include practices which the Legislature did not proscribe."

The City Council has withheld action on the measure pending an evaluation from the State EOC on the points of substantial equivalency. Not until local communities have codes substantially equivalent to state statutes can the State EOC allow cities to handle discrimination complaints.

Wood said he thought the changes in the housing section would not have a watering down effect on the ordinance as a whole.

BSR McDONALD

We've heard it, and you may have said it yourself: "I might be able to afford stereo ... but quadrasonics, no way!" We mean to show you there is a way.

The center of our "4-channels for less-than-the-price-of-two" system is the ingenious Harman-Kardon 50+ AM/FM Receiver. Its power output is 25 watts RMS per channel when it's used as a stereo (two-channel) amplifier. Operated as a quadrasonic four-channel amplifier, it delivers a smooth, clean 12½ watts into each of the four channels. And to convert from stereo to quad, you simply flip a switch on the back panel.

The BSR McDonald 310/X automatic turntable is one of our best-sellers, included in several of our regular stereo systems. You don't have to buy any extras, because it comes equipped with base, dust cover, and Shure magnetic cartridge.

Derby Cheater's Uncle Cited In Juvenile Court

Boulder, Colo. (UPI) — A prominent businessman who admitted helping his nephew cheat to win the national Soap Box Derby was charged in Juvenile court Wednesday with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. No charges were brought against the boy.

District Atty. Alex Hunter said he filed two counts against Robert Lange Sr. on charges he encouraged his nephew, James Gronen, 14, of Boulder, to violate laws in both Colorado and Ohio.

Hunter said each count carried a maximum penalty on conviction of $1,000 fine and one year in the county jail.

"There will be no charges filed against the boy," Hunter said. "The youngster already has been put through his ordeal."

Lange, whose son, Robert Jr., 15, won the national derby in 1972, admitted earlier this week that he convinced his nephew to install an electromagnet in his car to get a better start in the 1973 Soap Box Derby.

Gronen was disqualified two days after he won the race in Akron, Ohio, Aug. 18, and ordered to forfeit the $7,500 first-place scholarship.

Earlier this week, Lange issued a five-page statement in which he said cheating in soap box derbies is almost mandatory if a youngster has any hopes of winning.

"Anyone participating in derby races with eyes and ears open would soon learn that in order to get cars to Akron for the All-American Derby and to seek to win the All-American Derby the derby rules have been consistently and notoriously violated by some participants without censure or disqualification," Lange said.

Lange said he knew when he made the decision to install a magnetic nose in the car that it violated derby rules and said he now considered it "to be a serious mistake in judgment."

Lange explained his decision in a public statement to Jack Tracy, director of the Boulder derby. A copy of the statement was given to the district attorney.

"As the father of two boys, this letter makes me sick," Hunter said. "I can't understand the logic of this. It's five pages of, 'well, everyone else does it.'"

"There isn't a single reason put forth in Mr. Lange's statement, nor any conceivable reason that I can bring to mind, that could excuse an adult teaching a boy to cheat to win," the district attorney said.

Mrs. Mitchell On Phone Again

By HELEN THOMAS
San Clemente, Calif. (UPI) — Martha Mitchell said Wednesday that reports she is leaving her husband were "damned" lies.

In a telephone call to UPI, the wife of former attorney general John Mitchell said, "There has never been any such discussion with my husband. I'm staying to the bitter end. You can counteract that story."

She questioned published reports that "friends" were saying that she was about to separate from her husband.

"It's like all the other stories

A 54-year-old Omaha woman, Rosemary Chase, was listed in fair condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital Wednesday after she lost control of her car and it struck a street sign and a tree.

Blood Testing Of Stock Slated At Ak-Sar-Ben

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—The show manager for the Ak-Sar-Ben livestock show in Omaha, Robert Volk, Wednesday said all animals, not just breed champions, will be subject to blood testing to establish breed identities at this year's 4-H event.

Blood testing was used at this year's Iowa State Fair and two of the six breed champions were disqualified as a result.

Volk said the new policy doesn't mean every entry would be checked, but said the show committee reserves the right to do so.

The Ak-Sar-Ben event is the largest 4-H show in the nation and usually features hundreds of steers from Iowa.

York. He also faces possible indictment by the Watergate grand jury.

Mrs. Mitchell, informed that U.S. District Judge John Sirica had ordered President Nixon to produce the tapes and documents of conversations relating to Watergate, said:

"That's great, except they will be altered. There's something screwy about this."

Mrs. Mitchell has displayed increasing bitterness against the President over the Watergate affair and what it has done to her marriage.

Lincoln Man Hurt In Crash

Robert Shepard, 68, of 1531 Whittier was listed in fair condition at Lincoln General Hospital Wednesday after a two car collision at 13th and D.

According to Lincoln police reports, Shepard was eastbound on D when his car collided with an auto driven by Scott Swihart, 22, of 921 West Q eastbound on D.

Swihart was not injured. A passenger in his car, Lyle B. Peterson, 21, of 1132 So. 14th, was treated at Lincoln General Hospital and released.

Secretary Shortage Hits Lincoln

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln is an office girl's haven.

There is a virtually never-ending list of potential employers. There are three universities, the State Capitol, the home offices of no less than six insurance firms, plus a plethora of law firms, investment houses, city and county offices, and private business and industry.

But where are the office girls, the secretaries upon whom the executives have come to depend?

They are by no means beating down the doors in search of employment. In fact, local business and agency men are hard pressed to find them.

The business schools can't produce secretaries fast enough to keep up with demand.

Employment agencies are "rolling out the red carpet" for any girl who comes in and can take shorthand.

And the businesses even have taken it upon themselves to advertise for secretaries, finding few, if any, takers.

"Lincoln has always been short of secretaries," said Sterling Maus, owner and operator of Boomer's Personnel Center. "I'm so used to it I don't think anything about it. That's just how it is . . . it's a fact of life."

But others concerned with locating secretaries have observed the local situation worsen in the past six to eight months.

It's all part of a national trend. While the typewriter and steno pad are no less important in a smooth running office these days (despite the introduction of various technological machinery), more and more young women are spurning the business of office and pursuing professional careers and college educations.

To them, secretarial work has become a dead end, while others do not possess the skills required of qualified secretaries.

Added to that are the mountains of paper work afflicting big business.

All told, that has created the most "drastic and brutal" secretarial shortage in years.

"We didn't even have the rush of new high school graduates this spring," lamented Don Kidney, personnel manager for Security Mutual Life. "Ordinarily the girls from out of town are in here early."

Of course, secretarial positions at the Statehouse and at other large places of employ are filled from within as young women gain experience and further qualifications in other areas.

"Because of our large size, we don't employ people from the outside directly into secretarial capacities," said John Beecham, personnel director for the West Central Regional Office of State Farm Insurance.

"They began as typists or file clerks . . . in clerical positions, and, as normal promotions, they are considered for secretarial positions."

But even the more traditional methods of upward promotions to secretarial levels have their drawbacks.

SECRETARIES . . . like Mrs. Nancy Fields are in short supply.

The young woman who has learned shorthand only to secure a position as a clerk-typist or file clerk, with the hopes of using that as a vehicle of entry into a secretarial job, often forgets her acquired skills before her promotion comes due, one personnel director commented.

"There now aren't enough within the ranks to fill the secretarial positions," lamented Dave Carlborn, assistant director of personnel at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, as employers are now encountering difficulties in finding even well-qualified typists.

"The last three prospective typists I interviewed said they could type 60 words per minute, but they only did about 38 words per minute, and that was with 15 and 16 errors," the Security Mutual Life spokesman reported.

The situation has come to the point where the well-qualified, experienced secretary, wherever she may be, can just about dictate her salary. But she doesn't seem to be around.

Mrs. Alice Bonelli of the International Placement Service said, "We used to have 30 to 40 applicants per month . . . now it has been cut in half, at least, while the number of requests have gone up."

"We have people just crying for secretarial help; they call and ask, 'Do you have a warm body that can type?'"

She said she has talked to representatives of a variety of large companies which usually have a good

People are crying for secretarial help . . . "Do you have a warm body that can type?"

flow of applicants. "When school was out, there would be 100 to 150 applicants in late May and early June, but this is not true now."

"We aren't able to fill all our requests," said Maus, who noted that Boomer's can fill only 55% or 60% of business' requests for secretaries. "I think that's pretty poor."

"It has gotten to the point that some of the employers who are getting scared, are advertising themselves and not finding them either, so they're wondering where they are," said Sherry Lee of Reliable Employment Service which has between 10 and 15 secretarial requests each week.

"Employment agencies just don't send anyone, you run an ad and maybe two people show up," Kidney said.

Many agencies and businesses alike are finding that, if you "call it anything other than a secretarial position, you get a better response." The term "administrative assistant" seems to be the most popular mode of luring the secretary out of hiding.

Theories as to why there aren't enough qualified secretaries to go around are far-reaching.

One is that the young women are pursuing more lucrative careers. The beginning secretary makes anywhere from $325 to $400 a month, depending on the requirements, the company and its specific built-in wage scale, while the secretary with qualifications and experience can earn in excess of $500.

Many young women consider secretarial work a dead end, demeaning, and as being tied to business, which for some 20 years has been condemned as materialistic and immoral.

"Possibly females interested in a career-type employment probably have leaned toward more professional-type jobs than being a secretary for some other professional," speculated Al Furby, personnel director at Bankers Life Nebraska. "They may not consider themselves professional anymore."

Personnel directors are speculating that the shortage of qualified secretaries stems from more young women taking college preparatory courses in high school and then moving on to higher education, thus forgetting the typing and shorthand skills they acquired in high school if they even took such courses.

Others blame the lack of secretarial help on the schools.

"The high schools aren't teaching or even pushing shorthand," said the spokesman for Boomer's. "They all think the dictaphone has taken over, but that's just not true."

The drastic shortage of secretaries encountered by employers may be representative of the employment picture as a whole.

Unemployment in Lincoln is less than 3%; the national unemployment level is at about 5%.

That is "full employment," leaving primarily teenagers and students in the unemployment category.

"Wet Paint" is destined to be a splash.

The innovative, experimental children's television series jointly sponsored by the Nebraska ETV Network and the Junior League of Lincoln will be aired in the spring.

In the meantime, there is a list a foot long of cast positions to be filled.

Heading the list will be local talent needed to appear on the seven 30-minute programs by, for, and about kids.

Dancers, actors, musical groups, film-makers, comedians and comedienes, cooks, interviewers, and many, many more positions are awaiting elementary school children.

The auditions will be held Sept. 6, 7, 12, 13, 14, and 15, at the Nebraska Educational Telecommunications Center, 1800 No. 33rd St.

Audition appointments may be made between 3:30 and 6 p.m. at 472-3126 on Sept. 4, 5, 6, and 7.

The audition schedule is as follows:

—Dancers, Sept. 6 and 7, 4-6 and 7-9 p.m. Each dancer should furnish his or her music.

—Drama, both comedy and serious, Sept. 12, 4-6 and 7-9 p.m., and Sept. 13, 4-6 p.m. Material may be furnished or groups also may bring prepared skits.

—Interviewers, Sept. 13, 7-9 p.m. Material will be furnished.

—Musical groups and vocalists, Sept. 14, 4-6 and 7-9 p.m. A piano will be available.

—Other talent, including film-makers, Sept. 15, 9-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Film-makers should bring their 8 mm films.

—Emcees, Sept. 21, by appointment. Fourth, fifth, and sixth graders only.

If costumes or makeup are required for any act, advance preparations should be made. No dressing or makeup rooms will be provided.

"Any child who has a specific talent is encouraged to be at the auditions," said producer Ron Nicodemus of the ETV facility.

Specific goals of the children's television project include highlighting creative and artistic talents of children; developing a television series which will fill the gap that presently exists in contemporary broadcasting for elementary age children; providing the television audience with an opportunity to view innovations within the school system during its Year of the Arts; providing adults an opportunity to listen to the voices and opinions of youth; and providing a model for other television programs.

'Place: Neon Rose'

Connoisseurs of publications such as "The Whole Earth Catalog" and the "Workingman's Guide to the Universe," will want to gather together their loose change and truck on down to the nearest bookstore to obtain a copy of the recently-released "Place: Neon Rose."

The third volume of a new publication, "Place" was conceived and assembled by those same people who brought you the much-touted "Whole Earth Catalog."

It is distributed by Random House, Inc., and consists of a loosely-organized series of essays (both verbal and pictorial), poems and songs designed to convey — if that is possible — the essential "flavor" of the United States — its people, places, idiosyncrasies, and hang-ups.

Most of the essays are somewhat out-of-the-ordinary, thus establishing the tone of the booklet. There's a lengthy dissertation entitled "The Hip Odd Couple: How A Yippie Conspirator Learned The Truth About Frying Marbles," written by Paul Krassner (editor of "The Realist"), with annotations by Stewart Brand (founder of "Whole Earth").

Also included is an article by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, "The Coming of the Fairies," in which he attempts to document — through photographs and eye-witness accounts — the experiences of two young British girls who allegedly befriended a group of fairies and other little people in their backyard.

There are selections from several books, and a proposal by the Natural Wonders Transportation Company for "a three ton hydrogen balloon, the first of a proposed fleet of balloon-dirigibles for private/commercial transport of folks and goods." It almost seems tongue-in-cheek, but apparently it's not.

Selections from the "Mountain Eagle" a weekly newspaper published in Whitesburg, Letcher County, Ky., comprise one particularly interesting section.

Approaching the difficulties encountered by residents of the area with a straightforward, cursing zeal seldom seen in newspapers of this type, the "Mountain Eagle" is described as "the best periodical of any kind published in and concerned with the life and problems of the coal-producing regions of the Southern Appalachian Mountains."

The photo essays featured include two that are especially effective — one which deals with the recent events at Wounded Knee, S.D.; and another entitled "Donut Holes," made up of graphic representations of that typically American institution, the truckstop.

Informal in approach, "Place" seeks publishable contributions from anyone who wishes to share his or her perspective on any "Place"-oriented subject matter "ranging from farms to towns to cities, from sumps to mountains, cafes to continents, to, in a special sense, places of the mind and spirit, to the skinny little place between your teeth."

Subscribers are given the option of sending either the coin of the realm or certain non-perishable items in exchange for receiving quarterly copies of "Place." A pound of goosedown is suggested as a fair exchange for a year's subscription; and if you have a homemade quilt you want to get rid of, it might be worth a three or four-years' subscription.

So, if you have either of the above items — or any other "lightweight Natural Wonders" — send them along to "Place" in Walnut Grove, Calif.; or hurry down to the nearest newsstand. Several hours of reading pleasure await you.

Included on the national best-seller list this week are the following books:

- FICTION
1. Breakfast of Champions, Vonnegut
 2. The Hollow Hills, Stewart
 3. One Is Not Enough, Susann
 4. Harvest Home, Tryon
 5. Facing The Lions, Wicker

- NONFICTION
1. Dr. Atkins' Diet Revolution, Atkins
 2. The Joy Of Sex, Comfort
 3. Sybil, Schreiber
 4. Laughing All The Way, Howar
 5. The Weightwatchers Program Cookbook, Nidetch

Opening lead - two of spades.

Odd things happen in tournaments, even in the most exalted company, and this hand played in the 1960 World Olympiad in Turin is an example.

It occurred in the match between Great Britain and Denmark in the Women's Championship. The bidding is shown the way it took place when Denmark held the North-South cards.

Over South's insufficient bid of a diamond, the British West did not try to exact a penalty but bid one spade. Perhaps she reasoned that she lacked the values to come in safely with two spades if she called attention to the insufficient bid and South corrected her bid to two diamonds.

North quickly got to three notrump and made all the tricks after East led a spade. So Denmark scored 520 points at this table.

At the second table the bidding took an entirely different course. With a British pair now North-South, the bidding went:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	1 ♥	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	6 ♦	Pass
Pass	Dble

North's two heart bid was intended as a request for South to bid notrump if possible. But South reacted by jumping to four diamonds, and then undertook a slam in diamonds after North raised her to five.

This was certainly a reasonable contract but the British had bad luck on the hand and went down one.

East doubled six diamonds, thus commanding West not to lead a heart and to choose an abnormal lead instead. It was not difficult for the Danish West, holding five clubs—the suit bid by North—to find the killing club lead.

East ruffed, cashed the ace of hearts, and Britain lost 620 points on the deal.

No Fooling Around

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter stating deliverymen and servicemen often combined business with pleasure where housewives were concerned. In my 20 years of marriage I have not had one man make any advances toward me.

I have been told I am very attractive, and my 19-year-old son has said, "Mom, if you weren't my mother, I could go for you."

I have let servicemen into my home, even leading them down the cellar. Sometimes there were two of them, and if any of them ever had any ideas, they never showed it. They simply read the meter, checked the gauge, or did whatever they came to do, and left.

Once a fellow did indicate that he wouldn't mind hanging around. He said, "Mmmmmmm, that apple pie you're baking sure smells good. I can smell the cinnamon."

My answer was, "Oh, really?" And that was the end of that. It must be a very lonely housewife who sent out signals that would make a serviceman think he had a chance with her.

NO FOOLING AROUND

DEAR NO: You're lucky you had a serviceman who only wanted a piece of your apple pie. One woman wrote to say the meterman told her he'd heard that she had a water bed, and could he bounce around on it a bit just to see how it felt.

DEAR ABBY: For years my husband, son, and I have been planning a grand trip to Europe. (Combining our 25th wedding anniversary, our son's college graduation, plus visiting a French couple who saved my husband's life during World War II.) We have our reservations, passports, new clothes, etc. and are scheduled to leave in three weeks.

dear abby

However, my mother in law, who lives in the midwest, just phoned to say she plans to have cataract surgery one week before we leave! She has known about this for two years, but has been putting it off. My husband spoke to her doctor who says a three-week delay won't harm her.

Should we ask her to postpone her surgery for three more weeks until we get back? My husband says, no matter what, our trip is still on, but I can't see how we could go and have a good time with her in the hospital. We have spent every vacation with her for 24 years, and now I feel it is our turn.

What is your opinion? Am I selfish, or is she being contrary? And what if she doesn't postpone it?

Doctor Develops Home Treatment that

RINSES AWAY BLACKHEADS HELPS DRY UP ACNE-PIMPLES . . .

QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE 15 MINUTE HOME TREATMENT
MUST SHOW IMMEDIATE IMPROVEMENT OR—YOUR MONEY BACK!

A leading New York Doctor, working with a cosmetic laboratory, has developed a simple home treatment that rinses away blackheads, helps dry up acne pimples, and shrinks enlarged pores. The name of this medicated product is QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE. Apply this delightfully Mint-Scented Cream and within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla, dries and turns this cream into a plastic-like masque. You will now feel as though hundreds of "tiny fingers" are kneading the skin, loosening pore-caked dirt, blackheads, and other foreign impurities. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws out waste matter from the pores. . . In 15 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see that blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your wash cloth. And your skin feels clean . . . really clean . . . refreshed, smooth like velvet. Women 35 and over will enjoy the skin tightening experience as the masque relaxes tired facial muscles and eases tension lines on face and throat. If you suffer the agony of blackheads, acne-pimples, and enlarged pores, give yourself this home treatment and see the breath-taking results. Ask for it by name, QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE.

Liability Of State Officials Argued

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

State officials in their official capacity cannot be held liable for damages if they violate a person's constitutional rights, an attorney for the State Department of Roads argued Wednesday.

Assistant State Atty. Gen. James Duggan made the contention before U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom while seeking a rehearing on, or stay of judgment pending an appeal of, Urbom's order reinstating State Highway Engineer Richard Kiernan and awarding him $8,840 in damages.

Citing court decisions which he said supported his claim, Duggan said that Urbom's order was, in effect, a judgment against the state, and further that State Engineer Thomas Doyle was sued in his official capacity, not as an individual, and so should not be liable to pay damage.

Attorney Doug Marti, however, disputed Duggan's argument.

"If we are to follow that line of reasoning there is no way an employee of state government can be held liable for violating a person's constitutional rights," Marti said.

Suspension Asked

St. Louis (UPI) — Former U.S. Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst called on Sen. Sam J. Ervin's committee to suspend its Watergate hearings.

Marti also cited court decisions which he said backed his contention that state officials could be liable for equitable or monetary damages as individuals even if they were sued in the official capacity.

Earlier, Judge Urbom had questioned Duggan on that point, asking how damages could be granted under the Civil Rights Act unless a person could be held liable in his individual or official capacity.

(In ordering Kiernan reinstated because his firing violated his freedom of speech, Urbom had noted that state government cannot be held liable for damages, and his order was directed to Doyle.)

In response to Judge Urbom's question, Duggan replied that the "supreme authority" to hire and fire state employee's rested with the governor, who is not a party to the lawsuit.

In arguments on another point, Duggan claimed that the State Court of Industrial Relations and the Supreme Court had ruled that Kiernan was fired for insubordination, and said he was not fired in "bad faith."

Marti, however, said he could "argue for an hour" that Kiernan was fired in bad faith, claiming that Doyle's announcing Kiernan's termination at a Democratic luncheon where reporters were present supported his claim.

Three Die In Separate Collisions

At least three persons died Wednesday in separate traffic accidents on Nebraska highways.

The latest victim, whose name was being withheld pending notification of relatives, was killed when the pickup truck he was driving went off Neb. 56 six miles west of Cedar Rapids.

Killed in a car-truck accident west of Ashland at the junction of U.S. 6 and State Route 63 were Mrs. Fern M. Taylor, 68, of Ashland.

The State Patrol said Mrs. Taylor, westbound on U.S. 6, was making a left turn onto Highway 63, when her car was in collision with an eastbound truck driven by Terry E. Russell, 28, of Lincoln.

A hostess at the King's Food Host restaurant at the Greenwood Interchange, Mrs. Taylor was a past matron of the Matthews Chapter 242 Order of Eastern Star and a member of PEO at Ashland. Her survivors include a daughter, Carol Yoakem of Ashland; her mother, Mrs. Alice M. Albers of Lincoln; brother, William C. Albers of Lincoln; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services for Mrs. Taylor will be at 10:30 Saturday at the United Methodist Church in Ashland.

Eighty-five-year-old Matt Gubbels of Osmond died of injuries received Wednesday when the northbound pickup he was driving collided with a semi-truck at the intersection of U.S. 20 and State Street in Osmond, the State Patrol reported.

Officers said the eastbound truck was driven by Duane Borst, 37, of Cooksville, Ill.

The deaths bring Nebraska's 1973 highway fatality toll to 261, compared to 295 on the same date a year ago. For the month of August, 35 road deaths have thus far been recorded in the state.

Nixon Urged To Lift Ceilings

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—The National Livestock Feeders Association appealed Wednesday to President Nixon for immediate removal of the ceilings on beef prices.

NLFA President Milton Brown sent a telegram to Nixon in which he said the ceiling is "seriously unjustified and extremely unfair." He said, "Circumstances in the beef industry prompt the NLFA to appeal again for immediate removal of the freeze on beef prices.

"The arbitrary position taken by your administration to retain ceilings on beef until Sept. 12 creates an intolerable, unreasonable and unnecessary situation for consumers, packers, retailers and cattle feeders.

"The action continues to disrupt the normal movement into trade channels of both fed cattle and beef, and has created preposterous gyrations in the day-to-day market for both cattle and hogs, even though the price freeze has been removed from pork."

Brown's telegram said, "Frustration prevails throughout the entire industry. The next two weeks will be extremely critical and can grossly prolong the time of adjustment for a return to normal flow of product."

He said "further irreparable damage will be the result of holding out until Sept. 12.

Lincoln Auto Accident Rate Up 25%

Autos are being smashed up on Lincoln streets at an unprecedented rate so far this year, according to Lincoln Police Department statistics.

According to Assistant Chief Willis Manchester, 3,529 accidents have been reported through the end of July. The total is 25% ahead of last year's record-breaking total of 2,803 for the same period.

Manchester says there is no one thing on which the increase can be blamed. However, he said bad weather probably was a factor in the huge jump in accident totals for January of this year. In January of this year 848 accidents were reported compared to 414 in January of 1972.

Another reason for the large increase in this year's accident total, Manchester said, might be simply that there are more cars on the city's streets.

Police are hoping, however,

Leak Develops; People Forced To Evacuate

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — At least 100 persons were evacuated from their homes Tuesday when a leak developed in an 8-inch natural gas pipeline, authorities said.

Fire officials said persons living about eight miles southwest of the Memphis suburb of Whitehaven were ordered to evacuate as a precautionary measure. No explosion or fire occurred, firemen said.

Traffic on nearby U.S. 61 also was rerouted around the area.

Authorities said a private contractor doing grading and leveling work accidentally hit the pipeline, causing the leak.

Crews shut off the gas at the main valve so repairs could be made.

that the soaring accident rate is beginning to "taper off," Manchester said, through the efforts of officers working overtime in the Fatal Accident Reduction Enforcement (FARE) project.

The officers in the program are paid with federal funds to work overtime policing busy streets and intersections.

While police are searching for new ways to cut down the auto accident rate, they are watching with pleasure as the bicycle accident rate drops. At the end of July this year it was down 23% from last year's total for the same period.

The total of bicycle accidents this year is 52, compared with 68 last year. Manchester said the decrease probably can be attributed to "more awareness" on the part of the auto driver and cyclist.

In addition, Manchester said, the number of tickets written for bicycle violations is up 17.2%, showing, he said, how law enforcement can cause a decrease in the accident rate.

Another rising statistic that is causing police concern is the number of motorcycle accidents.

That total dropped dramatically last year after the Lincoln City Council passed an ordinance in May requiring motorcyclists to keep their headlights on at all times. From 200 accidents in 1971, the total plummeted to 140 in 1972.

This year, however, the rate has begun climbing again. Manchester said 94 motorcycle accidents have been reported this year compared to 82 last year, an increase of about 13%.

Fowler Asks Investigation Into Chamber Radial Fund

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Steve Fowler of Lincoln Wednesday asked the Legislature's Urban Affairs Committee to investigate the use of funds, some it possibly public, by the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce to oppose a city charter amendment preventing construction of the Northeast Radial.

The suggestion was endorsed by Fowler's fellow committee members, Sens. Frank Lewis of Bellevue and Loran Schmit of Bellwood, who agreed that it is one area the committee should look into in its examination of campaign spending laws.

Committee Chairman Duke Snyder of Omaha was not ready to endorse the idea.

"I don't want this committee to get bogged down in local problems. We could spend day after day on this."

"I don't want this to be an investigative committee — I'm too young to be a 'Senator Sam,'" Snyder said referring to U.S. Sen. Sam Ervin, chairman of the committee investigating the Watergate affair.

Fowler told the committee that a $5,000 contribution by the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce from its development fund to forces favoring the radial is "a big concern" among Lincoln residents, because the Lancaster County Board and Lincoln Electric System (LES) had contributed a total of $25,000 to the fund.

Those public funds were com-

NU Now Operating Under New Bylaws

A new set of University of Nebraska bylaws, once the subject for considerable campus debate, officially went into effect without fanfare earlier this month.

The Aug. 20 filing of the document with Nebraska's secretary of state capped a process begun more than two years ago, when a commission was appointed to review then-outdated policies for university governance.

Part of the new bylaws clarify teacher rights which were the subject of continuing dispute after the May 1970 student demonstrations which included occupation of a university building.

Other sections of the document update Board of Regents policies which hadn't been revised since the former University of Omaha became part of the University of Nebraska.

The Board of Regents itself completed its review of the new bylaws some 10 months ago and then sent them on to the state for an attorney general's review and filing.

Completion of what has been described as minor changes took several more months. A final review by the regents was completed at the board's July meeting.

The bylaws contain six sections, one each relating to the operation of the board, the structure of the university, terms of employment, rights and responsibilities of staff members, rights and responsibilities of students and business and financial management.

Since the bylaws deal with all-university matters, rules and regulations appropriate to functions unique to specific campuses will be drafted later.

The Board of Regents has on its agenda for a meeting Friday a resolution which would maintain all present rules and regulations, except those which are inconsistent with the bylaws, until new rules are drafted.

ingled by the chamber with donations from private firms, so that the exact use for the $5,000 donated by the Lancaster County Board and the $20,000 from LES could not be specifically identified.

Fowler suggested that the use of public funds to oppose Charter Amendment 2 would constitute a misuse of public funds. The proposal aimed at blocking construction of the controversial radial was subsequently defeated at the polls.

Since the public donations were not placed in a separate account, Fowler asked, "How do you chart it out (after it has been mingled with private dollars)?"

Nothing Done

Fowler said he approached Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas and Secretary of State Allen Beermann about the possible misuse, but Fowler said nothing has since been done by either office.

Fowler said he would like to have the committee investigate the matter in late September or early October so that the state's Corrupt Practices Act might be amended by the 1974 Legislature.

That law, which becomes effective Sept. 2, does not apply to contributions made by corporations to promote or defeat local issues, such as the Radial Amendment, the State Justice Department has advised Fowler.

The Justice Department advised Fowler that the loophole could be closed by the 1974 Legislature.

Murder Charged In No. Platte

North Platte, (UPI) — A first degree murder charge was filed Wednesday afternoon against a North Platte man in what authorities theorized was an apparent murder-attempted suicide.

Lincoln County Atty. Walter Mullikin said he filed the charge against Danny Joe Taylor, 21, in the death of his wife, Barbara, 20.

Mullikin said police found Taylor on the floor of the couple's northside home with a facial wound, while his wife was found dead with a gunshot wound to the head in a bedroom of the home.

A Russian-made 8mm rifle was found at the scene.

35 UNL Home Ec Students To Receive Ak-Sar-Ben Aid

Thirty-five upperclassmen and incoming freshmen at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Home Economics have been selected to receive $200 Ak-Sar-Ben scholarships for the 1973-74 school year.

Students awarded these scholarships on the basis of their academic achievement and financial need were:

Freshmen: Carolyn Muller of Wakefield, Denise Johns of Syracuse, Karen Policky of Dwight, Lucy McGath of Fremont, Karen Drake of Burchard and Marianna Carlson of Omaha.

Sophomores: Karen Anderson of Wayne, Julie Amerton of Bloomfield, Alice Cadwallader of Alma, Wanda Henry of Daykin, Kristine Huettel of Wellfleet, Lorraine Jacobson of Bridgeport, Marilyn Kuehn of Heartwell, Cynthia Oltman of Superior, Jacquelyn Quinn of Ord and Dian Schmeizer of Hayes Center.

Juniors: Linda Baier of Carroll, Linda

Hamilton County Lamb Champs Named

A pair of 115-pound lambs took grand championship honors in the 4-H and FFA market lamb judging held concurrently at the Hamilton County Fair in Aurora this week. Clinton Jensen's lamb, right, was the 4-H winner, while Greg Luthy's animal was tops in FFA competition. (Star Photo)

UNL Dorm Occupancy Down

Dormitory occupancy at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln is down more than 4½% from last year, according to housing director Richard Armstrong.

He said that on a revenue producing basis, current occupancy is calculated at 93.24%, compared with 97.89% last fall and 96.98% a year earlier.

Armstrong said the dorms are budgeted at 91% occupancy and therefore will operate in the black this fall. But a between-semester drop, which historically occurs, could be as great as 6% this year, he speculated.

Most dormitories at state institutions of higher education have been financed with revenue bonds and require reasonable occupancy to meet payment schedules.

At the state colleges, dorm occupancy appears to be up — or at least on a par — with last year, a review has indicated.

Wayne State housing director Dave Schulte predicted from 25 to 50 more beds will be occupied this year.

At Chadron State, Don Duncan of the housing office said occupancy is "not as good as we might have hoped for, but it probably will be on a par with last year."

Peru State's housing and student affairs director, John Letts, said occupancy appears to be improving, and Kearney State housing director Dan Duffy said his school looks forward to a somewhat increased occupancy level.

Duffy said last year's occupancy was below 80% and "we need better than that."

Lincoln Schools Win 3 Honors

The Lincoln Public Schools district has been notified its publications have won awards in three categories of a national contest sponsored by Nation's Schools magazine.

The school district won first place in the school finance publications category with an Education Insights edition explaining the 1972-73 budget.

Draper of Fairbury, Deborah Fryzek of Ord, Susan Kappelman of Burton, Peggy Kreshel of Wilber, Neva Lindell of Douglas, Mary Jane Sucha of Clarkson and Billie Jo Jardine of Alliance.

Seniors: Karen Mintzmyer Anderson of Waverly, Sharon Bundy of Tekamah, Crystal Cooksey of Berwyn, Pamela Heller of Wisner, Sharon Hockemeier of Newman Grove, Sharon Hotovy of Dwight, Carol Lammers of Hartington, Shirley Lorens of Stratton, Cynthia McNeal of North Platte, Marilyn Nelson of Newman Grove and Betty Carlson of Hooper.

Beet Growers Want To Pull Out Of Co-op

Gering (UPI) — The estimated 500-member Nebraska Non-Stock Sugar Beet Growers Assn. has requested its board of directors to inform the Great Western Sugar Producers Cooperative that the Nebraskans want to pull out.

The move came despite a plea from Association President Lou Towater of Scottsbluff not to do so and advice from the association's attorney, Harry Meister of Scottsbluff, that it may be illegal.

The ballot vote, showed 171 members in favor of pulling out of the cooperative, 43 against and 250 abstaining.

The co-op has been attempting to purchase for $93 million the Great Western Sugar Co. of Denver, Colo., the nation's largest sugar producer, from Great Western United in Denver since 1969.

Towater, also a co-op board member, told the association that the reluctance of Nebraska beet growers to have confidence in the cooperative caused lending institutions involved in the purchase to back out Aug. 1.

However, Towater said, negotiations are still in progress and the sale could be consummated in a few weeks.

Towater said he had been advised by co-op attorney Jerry Danniels of Denver that co-op bylaws provide growers can terminate their co-op membership only as individuals and not as an association.

Kearney Man Gets Delay In Rape Hearing

Kearney (UPI) — Ronald L. Landstrom, 41, of Kearney, a professor at Kearney State Teachers College, was granted a continuance Wednesday in his preliminary hearing on a charge of rape.

Landstrom is accused by a 21-year-old Kearney woman, who said the incident took place last Wednesday.

The hearing was continued from Friday until Sept. 12, Buffalo County Court Judge J. Karr Taylor said. Landstrom remained free on his own recognizance.

Turkey Output To Be Up 42% For Nebraska

Nebraska is expanding its turkey output by 42% this year, the Division of Agricultural Statistics estimated Wednesday.

Growers expect to raise 1,322,000 of the birds, compared with 933,000 last year.

In the eight West North Central states — Nebraska, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri — this year's turkey production is estimated to be up 6%. National, a 2% increase is seen.

Stanley Believes Cowboy Team Could 'Win It All'

Stillwater, Okla. — Jim Stanley, like all coaches, doesn't believe in pre-season polls, but the new Oklahoma State football coach says he won't argue with any of the Big Eight observers, who are picking his Cowboys to finish near the top in the conference chase.

"It's not how you're picked, but how you finish that counts," Stanley told the Big Eight Skywriters here Wednesday. "I'm optimistic by nature and I think we've got to be considered for a high finish if we continue to improve."

"We've got a chance to finish in the higher echelon or possibly win it all."

Confidence The Difference

Stanley's players are talking the same way, maybe even a little stronger.

"I guess Colorado will be the favorite," says fullback George Palmer, "But I think we're No. 1 (in the Big Eight)."

"When I came here," says senior quarterback Brent Blackman, "I came to make Oklahoma State a winning team. I've been disappointed so far."

"We could have been 9-2 last year. We got beat by Nebraska, but I think we could have beaten everyone else. We fumbled the ball away on the two-yard line at Virginia Tech and we had a kick hit the crossbar against Arkansas.

"We were inconsistent last year because we didn't have that confidence you need. You've got to go into every game knowing you can win it."

"We didn't have that last year, but we've got that confidence this year and there's a world of difference in going into a game knowing you can win from going into a game where you have doubts."

Coach Sees Confidence

Stanley says he can see the confidence, noting, "The No. 1 thing we've got going for us is attitude."

"Our players are enjoying football and they came back this fall with the impression that winning is important."

The Cowboys also have something else going for them, returning more starters than anyone in the league and Stanley promises, "Overall, we're going to have a fine team."

"I don't know how many we'll win and how many we'll lose, but I guarantee you that we'll have a good football team."

Stanley has few really serious problems as he becomes the third O-State coach in as many years.

"I guess our main concerns are depth in the defensive line and depth in the defensive secondary," he says. "And we have a question at center."

Obvious Problems Are Few

Aside from that there are few obvious problems confronting the Cowboys, who primarily are a senior team.

Stanley calls free safety Alvin Brown "as good as I've ever been around and that includes the pros as well as the colleges."

Of Palmer, he says, "There aren't many players in the country better than George."

And of tight end Reuben Gant, Stanley declares, "He can be as good as he wants to be. There are some good tight ends in this league and he has to be considered among them."

One of the keys to the Cowboys' success, however, rides on keeping Blackman healthy at quarterback to run the Wishbone attack.

And at only 5-11 and 162 pounds, he's vulnerable to injury.

'That's A Concern'

Stanley admits, "It would be difficult to win if Blackman should get hurt. That's a concern to me."

It's not of concern to Blackman, however. "I know people say that," he admits, "And maybe the team feels that way."

"It makes me feel good that they do, but I don't think they should because I think we've got some good quarterbacks backing me up."

Those backing him up, however, have little or no experience. Backing him up are sophomore Coy Everett, junior Jeff Trout and two freshmen, Jimmy Derrick and Charlie Weatherbie.

Stanley plans to give those trying to defend the Oklahoma State wishbone attack an added dimension to think about.

Citing the fact that the Cowboys threw only 104 times last season, he says, "We're going to throw it more. A lot of people say it's tough to throw from the wishbone, but I don't necessarily believe that."

MONTREAL RALLIES PAST LA

— CAUSE FOR ALARM —

Husker Offense Performs Badly

By RANDY YORK

Apprehension in Nebraska's football camp may have peaked Wednesday during a scrimmage.

The Cornhuskers' No. 1 offense, again minus the services of field general Dave Humm, performed bleakly against the third team defense.

"There's some cause for alarm," Nebraska head coach Tom Osborne acknowledged after his top offense was called for three holding penalties, lost two fumbles and had a pass intercepted in 15 minutes.

"The offense stopped itself. They had an exceptionally tough time," added Osborne. "We hope that they leave those types of mistakes on the practice field."

Osborne said officials were used for the scrimmage "because we feel officiating plays a large part in an early ball game and we're trying to scrutinize that type of game now."

Although the No. 1 unit's execution was off-key, it did manage to score a touchdown when fullback Ralph Powell ran 26 yards off tackle.

The top unit threatened to score one other time, marching to the 7-yard line. But tackle Al Austin was whistled for holding on first down, putting the touchdown out of range.

The Black Shirts were much more impressive during their 15-minute stint against the No. 3 offense, a facsimile of UCLA's wishbone, engineered by scout team quarterback Glen Ray.

"The defense missed only two plays, one which broke on them," noted Osborne. "But most were specific situation plays and you expect that when 30 to 40 plays are originated."

Fullback Jim Belka cracked the Black Shirts' armor with what would have been a long touchdown gallop during the controlled session.

Sayers Leaves Omaha Post

Omaha (AP) — Omaha's human relations director, Roger Sayers, is leaving his post to become a railroad executive.

The former track star said he was resigning, effective Oct. 1, to become assistant personnel director of the Union Pacific Railroad.

Sayers said he wanted to further his career in the field in which he was trained. He holds a master's degree in business administration from the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Sayers said he has recommended a field representative for the Human Relations Department, Larry Myers, as acting director if a replacement is not found by the time he leaves. He expressed belief that overt discrimination has been stopped, but said minorities still feel great despair at not being in the "economic mainstream" of American life.

Sayers competed as an American team member in international track meets and starred at Central High School and UNO. He is the brother of former professional football star Gayle Sayers.

Despite his discouragement over the showing of his No. 1 offense, Osborne allowed that the second team offense "looked pretty good scoring three touchdowns and did about all you can hope for in 15 minutes."

Scrambling quarterback Earl Everett was the standout on the second unit, scoring a pair of short-range touchdowns (1 and 2 yards) and passing four yards to fellow frosh Bobby Thomas for another TD.

Junior fullback Mike O'Holleran and freshman I-back Dave Gillespie also scored for the lower offensive unit on jaunts of six and eight yards, respectively.

Osborne indicated that Humm "may not be ready" for the UCLA opener, but added that "we're hoping he'll be back out Friday. It's doubtful he'll scrimmage Saturday, but we hope he'll be ready to run the first team Monday."

Humm strained some knee ligaments Tuesday in what was supposed to be a non-contact session. "There wasn't much swelling," Osborne said of the injury.

As a precautionary measure, however, Humm's knee was placed in a temporary cast.

Rodgers: UCLA May Be 25% Better

Los Angeles (UPI) — When you return three-quarters of a backfield that piled up 3,810 yards, you can admit you're optimistic. Pepper Rodgers does.

"I think we have a good chance at the Rose Bowl," the comical third-year football coach of UCLA said. "Not the best chance but a good chance."

The major problem is right here. University of Southern California is the defending national champion and is ranked No. 1 in the nation — before a game has been played. The Bruins are rated eighth.

"SC is going to be great again," Rodgers added, "and they'll have the momentum going. We're going to be a good football team. Whether we're a great one remains to be seen."

On paper at least, the Bruins have awesome potential. They lost to the Trojans 24-7 last season for the right to represent the Pacific-8 in the Rose Bowl

Borner Wins After 23 Holes

Toledo, Ohio — Charlie Borner of North Platte defeated Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tuscon, Ariz., 1 up after 23 holes here Wednesday at the Inverness Golf Club in the U.S. Amateur Tournament.

Borner was three up after 13 holes and lost the next three to tie with Updegraff for the regulation 18 holes. Borner then went 1 up on the fifth extra hole of play.

Borner will meet Allen Sussel of Villanova, Pennsylvania for the third round.

But former Nebraska State Amateur champion Frank Rose, now of Topeka, Kan. was beaten 4 and 3 by Jerry Courvilled, Norwalk, Conn.

SCORING ON ERRORS

Minnesota pitcher Ray Corbin stands by while Tiger Duke Sims (left) scores after Aurelio Rodriguez struck out but reached first on a passed ball. Catcher Phil Roof threw wildly to infield in the same play, allowing Mickey Stanley to score. The Tigers still won, however, 9-5.

Bailey Homer Lifts Expos' Hopes, 6-5

...NINTH INNING CHARGE

MONTREAL (AP) — Bob Bailey drove in five runs, three of them with a ninth inning homer against reliever Jim Brewer. Pepe Mangual had doubled and Ken Singleton walked against starter Tommy John. Then Hal Breeden beat out an infield hit and pinch runner Mike Jorgensen raced to third on a wild pickoff throw.

After two walks loaded the bases, Boots Day delivered a pinch single, scoring the winning run.

The Dodgers jumped Mike Torrez for three runs in the first inning. Dave Lopes was hit by the first pitch of the game and Los Angeles quickly loaded the bases on a double by Bill Buckner and a walk to Willie Davis.

Joe Ferguson delivered one run with a sacrifice fly and then Steve Garvey doubled two more home. The run scored by Davis was the 1,000th of his major league career.

Buckner singled home another run and then scored on Davis' triple in the fifth.

Montreal scored its first two runs in the seventh on Bailey's double.

Houston Edges St. Louis, 3-2

HOUSTON (AP) — Jimmy Stewart drilled a pinch single in the bottom of the ninth inning Wednesday night, delivering the winning run as Houston edged St. Louis 3-2.

Jimmy Wynn opened the ninth with a walk and moved up on John Edwards' sacrifice. After Tommy Helms was intentionally walked, Stewart, batting for winning pitcher Dave Roberts, delivered the winning hit.

The Cardinals came from behind to tie the score with two out in the ninth on Joe Torre's single. Tom Heinzelman had opened with a single and Lou Brock forced him. Then Brock stole second and continued to third on an error before Torre's infield single brought him home.

Doug Rader hit the 20th home run of the baseball season for the Astros, who led until the ninth on Roberts' four-hit pitching.

Extra Time May Help Els' Rockets

One of a Series
By Randy York
Prep Sports Writer

With an inexperienced team, every bit of extra time helps.

That's why Lincoln Northeast football coach Bob Els is pleased that his Rockets don't open the season until Sept. 14, one week later than most Class A clubs.

"We're not going to make any drastic changes. But the extra week of practice should give us a chance to sharpen up," Els says of his defending state co-champion Rockets.

Northeast invades Big 10 favorite Fremont for its opener. Els believes by that time the Rockets will have blended their backfield talent.

"We lost all four backfield starters," he acknowledges, "but I think we'll be quicker," there this year than we were last year."

Letterman quarterback Jim Tomasek and seasoned fullback Doug Deterding, backup to all-city choice Pat Ewoldt last fall, were especially impressive the first week of practice, according to Els.

The Rocket coach calls 1972 all-city guard Glen Sullivan "perhaps the finest offensive lineman we've had in the four years I've been here."

Els also praised the spirited leadership of returning split end starter Chuck Biggs, who has been taken out of the quarterback picture. Biggs is also a standout safety. He was the state's leading pass pirate last fall with 11 interceptions.

Brian Beaty, who would have been a returning offensive guard starter, did not report for football. School officials cited scholastic problems as the likely reason for his absence.

Defense may be what carries Northeast. The Rockets gave up less than six points per game last season and Els is hopeful to build a comparably effective defensive unit this fall.

Northeast's probable starting lineups include:

Offense — Steve King or Dane Squires, center; Glen Sullivan and Steve Singleton, guards; Jim Hageman and Todd Gettman or Gary Reid, tackles; Chuck Biggs, split end; Stan Schmidt or Rob Michaud, tight end; Jim Tomasek, quarterback; Doug Deterding, fullback; Dan Cass and Paul Letcher, halfbacks.

Defense — Michaud and Schmidt, ends; Randy Swenson, Allan Greer, Jon Leastman or Reid, tackles; Singleton, middle guard; Sullivan and Mike Tays, linebackers; Deterding and Steve Leach, cornerbacks; Biggs and Jim Miller, safeties.

Giles Utilizes 'Unique' Putting Rule To Win

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Defending champion Vinny Giles, taking advantage of a unique putting rule used only in match play competition, advanced to the third round of the 73rd U.S. Amateur Championship Wednesday with a three and one victory over Mickey VanGer-mond, Va., never trailed in the match after jumping out to a three-hole margin after four holes, the 32-year-old VanGer-mond, an attorney, battled back to be only one hole down after the 11th.

On the 12th, however, Giles made use of a match play rule which allows a golfer who is putting to take advantage of his opponent's ball position.

VanGerbig's ball stopped inches from the cup. Giles, who was about seven feet away, requested VanGerbig mark the ball and leave it there. When Giles' putt fell below the cup, it hit VanGerbig's ball and went into the hole, giving him a birdie four and the hole.

Giles made the turn in one over par 36 on the 6,816 yard, par 71. Inverness Club course and was two over par for the 17 holes he played.

Foreman Begins Speed Work As Fight Nears

TOKYO (UPI) — World heavyweight champion George Foreman and challenger Joe "King" Roman of Puerto Rico appeared in top shape Wednesday as they worked out only three days before their title fight at the Nihon Budokan Hall.

Foreman boxed two rounds each with Len Hutchins of Kalamazoo, Mich., whom Dick Sadler, Foreman's trainer, described as the leading light heavyweight contender, and middleweight Sam Helmer of San Francisco.

Sadler said the champion's hard work was over and that he would concentrate on speed in his workout today. Foreman, however, pumped in hard body punches as a large crowd looked on at the Tokyo public gym.

Foreman punched the speed bag without letup for six minutes after his four rounds of sparring.

and Sadler said the fighter was in great shape. But Sadler said Foreman would train as usual Thursday.

Sadler said he was not concerned about Foreman's weight but only about the champion's condition from day to day, although neither Foreman nor Sadler gave the champion's weight. However, Foreman appeared to weigh about 225 pounds.

Foreman and Roman will weigh-in at 5 a.m. EDT Friday. They will not weigh-in on Saturday, the day of the fight.

Foreman, himself, said he did not see why there was a weigh-in for heavyweights when there is no weight limitation for this class.

Foreman declined to predict a knockout win over Roman and said both fighters had a 50-50 chance. But Larry Frazier, a heavyweight from San Francisco.

Cubs Fall To Braves

ATLANTA (AP) — Major league home run leader Davey Johnson drilled his 37th of the season in the fifth inning Wednesday night, leading the Atlanta Braves to a 7-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Johnson stroked a Ray Burris, 1-1 pitch into the left field stands, leading off the fifth, snapping a 4-4 tie. Marty Perez and Chuck Goggin added two insurance runs for Atlanta in the seventh with run-scoring singles. Billy Williams had tied it with a solo shot in the top of the inning for the Cubs, ripping his 17th of the season into the right field stands off reliever Tom House, 3-1. The Cubs jumped off to a 3-0 edge in the second inning off Braves' starter Carl Morton, ripping the right-hander for six hits in the inning, including run-scoring hits by Paul Popovich, Randy Hundley and Don Kessinger.

The Braves came back with a pair in the second on Mike Lum's two-run single off Cubs' starter Bill Bonham and kayeod the righty in the fourth on RBI singles by Ralph Garr and Henry Aaron's second of three hits. Aaron was blanked in his bid to improve on his 706 career homers in his quest of Babe Ruth's all-time mark of 714. He stroked two infield hits and struck out in addition to his run-producing liner to right field.

Driessen Leads Reds Over Bucs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dan Driessen's fourth home run of the baseball season sparked a four-run, fourth-inning Cincinnati uprising and Jack Billingham pitched a three-hitter to lead the Reds to a 5-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Billingham, who owns four of Cincinnati's seven victories over Pittsburgh this year, struck out nine of the first 12 batters he faced and didn't allow a hit until Gene Cline hit a double with one out in the sixth. The hit drove in Gene Alley, who had reached second on center-fielder Cesar Geronimo's two-base error.

Billingham, who finished with 11 strikeouts, raised his record to 17-8. He gave up his second and third hits of the game in the ninth when Dave Parker singled and Richie Hebner hit his 19th home run of the year.

The Cincinnati right-hander recorded his 14th complete game of the season, one less than National League leader Steve Carlton of Philadelphia.

LeRoy has been lost for a good part of the season, if not all of it, by a viral infection in the sac surrounding the heart. Earlier this week, Dewey complained of chest pains and he was hospitalized.

Lucius also was hospitalized just because he was there brother and doctors didn't want to take any chances. But they said Wednesday that tests revealed that neither Lucius nor Dewey has the disease and said they would be released Thursday to return to practice.

LeRoy also was to be released but will continue treatment for the problem.

Smith, Nastase Struggle To Win

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Stan Smith struggled to find his touch and Ilie Nastase complained about the balls, but the joint top seeds both easily advanced Wednesday to the second round of the $227,000 U.S. Open tennis championship.

Smith, of Sea Pines, S.C., had a miserable first set before he beat French Davis Cupper Patrick Proisy, 6-4, 5-0, retired, while Nastase, the defending champion from Romania, beat Humphrey Hose of Venezuela, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Proisy injured a groin muscle after two falls in the first set, in which the tennis resembled public park play as service was broken five times, and he found it too uncomfortable to continue.

"I was unable to get up for service and could not run for Stan's placements," the Frenchman said, "so I decided to retire rather than risk further injury."

Smith, the favorite for the top prize of $25,000 following his five-set defeat of Nastase in the recent Davis Cup interzone finals at Alamo, Calif., conceded he had not played well.

With the temperature over 100 degrees on court, the players had a tough time. "I could not breathe out there," Nastase said. "It would be impossible to play five sets, for me, anyway."

Nastase also complained about bad bounces and the heaviness of the balls. "It was difficult to keep control in the circumstances," he said.

Both Smith and Nastase were unhappy about being joint first seeds. "They should have picked one of us. I've beaten him four out of five since 1972, but he's won the Italian and French titles this year. But they should have chosen one of us," Smith said.

Smith, who also complained about the heat said, "it was difficult to get going out there today. I like to play in hot weather, but it was ridiculous today."

"It's too early to comment about my form. I found the grass difficult but I don't usually get it together before the quarter-finals. Then I start to play, so we'll have to wait and see."

In an aside, Smith, as chairman of the Association of Tennis

Professionals suspension committee, confirmed the $5,000 fine imposed upon the Romanian because he played at Wimbledon.

"Nastase knows our rules. We voted to boycott Wimbledon, but he decided to ignore the decision of the majority. He has to pay the fine or else he'll lose his membership and with it the right to play in our three member tournaments."

Nastase said he would not pay the fine. He said the Romanian association, which ordered him to play, should pay the fine "otherwise I will not play Davis Cup next year."

The temperamental Romanian saw another way out of the dilemma, getting the ATP to fight his case for the $6,000 he is owed for winning the Western Open at Cincinnati earlier this month. "If they get the money they can keep the $5,000 and I'll settle for $1,000," he said.

Browns Trim Four Rookies

Hiram, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns cleared waivers on four rookies Wednesday to cut team size to the official National Football League 49-player limit.

But the four will remain at the training camp here, a team spokesman said.

Those cleared on waivers are Bobbie Majors, defensive back from Tennessee; defensive end Tom Humphrey from Abilene Christian; Brigham Young tackle John Monahan, and center Bob McClowry from Michigan State.

The cut rule doesn't apply to the Browns' three All-Star rookies Greg Pruitt, Steve Holden and Pete Adams, the spokesman said, leaving the team's actual player count at 52.

Riggins Placed On Reserves

Hempstead, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Jets Wednesday placed fullback John Riggins, who left camp Tuesday in a contract dispute on the reserve list with a notation that he failed to report.

This action will enable the National Football League club to activate Riggins promptly should the former University of Kansas star return to the fold.

Riggins is reportedly seeking a $120,000 pact.

The club also took action on eight other players. Safety Phil Wise was put on the pre-season inactive list with a pulled groin muscle. Tackle Vernon Emerson, out for the year with a back injury, was put on the reserve list as injured.

Guard Roy Kirksey and linebacker Wally Dempsey were both waived and claimed.

The Jets' roster is at 48, one under the limit.

Market Is Up Sharply

New York (AP) — The stock market was up sharply Wednesday, adding more than 11 points in a rally that was strong and broad.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks recovered nearly 9 points Monday and Tuesday, added 11.36, to close at 883.43.

Advances led a generous lead over declines, 1,011 to 407 among the 1,767 issues traded as participation in the advance broadened well beyond the blue chips. Volume was a moderate total of 15.69 million shares, compared with 11.81 million Tuesday. Brokers said the activity was good for a pre-Labor Day week, when trading usually eases.

"The market is still in a bottoming-out phase," said Martin Goodfriend of Bruns, Nordemann & Co. "But there's good reason to expect that the trend of the equity list will be gradually uprising over the months ahead."

Goodfriend and other analysts said that the recent stability of the market in the face of rising interest rates, the break in the commodity price rise, the favorable balance of trade, and signs that the economy is slowing down encouraged buyers into the market.

The glamour stocks, which have been particularly active lately, were led by Polaroid up 4 1/2 to 118 1/2, Xerox gained 1 1/2 to close at 155 1/2, and IBM was up 1/4 at 304 1/4.

Cooper Laboratories was the volume leader on the New York exchange, up 7 1/2, followed by Champion International, up 1 1/2, and Fannie Mae was up 1/2 to 11 1/2. Lilly Chemicals, up 1/2, and AT&T, part of an advancing utilities group, was up 1/4 at 47 1/4.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
